

HOWLAND IS HERE
TO STORM O'BRIEN
CASTLE FOR BRIDE

Like Cavalier of Old, Life-Saver Comes to Free Wife From Mother.

SOON TO BE CATHOLIC

Bridegroom Has Been Under New Jersey Priests' Tutelage for 2 Weeks.

TELLS HIS FULL STORY

Only Heard From His Wife Once Since the Elopement.

Like a cavalier of old romance, John A. Howland, life-saver, of Spring Lake, N. J., has come to St. Louis to storm the castle of family hostility and wealth which immures his helmsman bride of a month, formerly Miss Helen O'Brien. Although she was torn from his arms by her relatives, and has not been spoken to him since the ceremony which made them man and wife, Howland is assured by mutual friends that she is an unwilling captive.

He arrived in St. Louis Thursday evening and spent the night with friends. During the day he expected to win entrance into the family fortress, at 5117 Maple avenue.

To make himself more acceptable as a son-in-law to Mrs. Rose Cartan O'Brien, widow of the wealthy bell-maker, John O'Brien, Howland has quit the Presbyterian church, and expects to be confirmed as a Catholic next week. With an application inspired by love, the swimmer, in two weeks of tutelage under the Rev. Father Lyons of Spring Lake, learned by heart many of the prayers, catechisms and articles of faith of the Catholic religion.

O'Brien's ardent Catholics, and much of Mrs. O'Brien's, wish to see her daughter's marriage was said to have been due to the fact that Howland was a Protestant.

The life-saver is a handsome athlete, 22 years old. He is heavily tanned by the sun and salt water, and constant exercise has endowed him with an admirable physique. His face is clean-cut, frank and intelligent, and his gray eyes are alert and straightforward. The story of his romance was told by himself for the first time Friday, to a Post-Dispatch reporter.

"I came to this city in response to a telegram from Miss Gertrude O'Brien, sister of my wife, although the summons was countermanded an hour later by Miss O'Brien," said Howland. "Mrs. Howland read a letter from me Tuesday which had been withheld from her for three weeks, and suffered a nervous attack. As a means of restoring her, Miss O'Brien telegraphed for me, but retracted the invitation as soon as Mrs. Howland became better.

"I am determined to reclaim my wife, as I believe she loves me and has endured for my sake a vigorous struggle with her relatives. I wish to settle matters with her family by peaceable methods, such as will cause no embarrassment or public conflict. I am willing to yield to their wishes at every point, save the one of surrendering my wife.

Love at First Sight.
"Attorney John S. Leahy unwittingly acted the role of Cupid in our romance. Leahy and his wife have a cottage at Spring Lake, and persuaded the O'Briens to join them there last summer. Their acceptance of the invitation led to my meeting Miss O'Brien. With both it was love at first sight.

"Our courtship was conducted in the surge of the ocean, while I, in my professional capacity, protected Miss O'Brien as she swam. Her mother and sister saw only from a distance.

"On Aug. 25 we eloped to Avon, N. J. A Catholic priest refused to marry us because I was a Protestant, and the ceremony was performed by a Baptist minister. We agreed to keep the news secret for a while. Mrs. Howland returned at once to her mother's cottage and I went to the home of my father, a retired sea captain. I have not since seen my wife, and have received but one letter from her.

"Mrs. O'Brien was in ill-health, but possibly noted her daughter's preoccupation and glow of happiness. Mrs. Howland would not confide in her, but after three days she sent for Leahy at his cottage, a block away, and confessed her marriage to him. He broke the news to Mrs. O'Brien. James A. McKown, who succeeded John O'Brien as president of the O'Brien Boiler Works, was summoned to take command of the situation.

"In the meantime, as admittance was forbidden me to the cottage as well as permission to see my wife, I employed Attorney H. D. Montgomery of Pittsburgh.

Heid Against His Will.
"McKown hastened to New York with Mrs. Howland. There she contrived to smuggle off a letter to me. She assured me of her love and told me she Contortionist Arrested on Charge of Pretending Car Injury and Asking Damages.

His ability to throw his shoulder joint into place after it is dislocated got Robert Weston, or Robert Smith, into trouble. He was arrested Friday on a charge of attempting to get money from the United Railways Co. by false pretenses. Claim Agent Harding says the man is a contortionist.

A few days ago Robert V. Smith, who said he was a plumber living at 1410 Olive street, put in a claim for damages, alleging that he was knocked from a street car as it rounded a curve at Thirteenth street and Cass avenue, dislocating his right shoulder. He asked for damages.

Harding learned that Smith applied for treatment to Dr. O. L. Wolter, 1446 Blair avenue, on Sept. 19. His right shoulder was dislocated. He told the doctor he had fallen from a street car. While Dr. Wolter examined the injury, the man suddenly threw his shoulder back in place and left the office without further treatment.

When he was arrested he gave his name as Robert Weston. He insisted that he fell from a street car and was injured, and denied that he is a contortionist.

SPOTTED HYENA IS GNAWING ITSELF TO DEATH IN ZOO

Animal Is Believed to Be Demented and Probably Will Be Shot.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The spotted hyena at the National Zoological Garden is slowly gnawing itself to death. A few days ago the animal, the gift of Adam Forepaugh in 1886, began to gnaw its left leg. From the paw to the middle joint the member now is raw. The hyena, weakened by the loss of blood and the drain on its vitality, is able to move only with extreme difficulty.

"If it doesn't stop gnawing itself pretty soon," said the keeper, "it will have to be shot. It will be the only merciful course."

That the animal is demented is the belief of the caretakers. Some years ago another hyena similarly attacked itself, chewing at its side until several ribs were exposed. It was shot.

WOMAN HIS CURSE, HE SAYS;
MARRIED 5, NO. 6 IN SIGHT

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—"Women have been the curse of my life," declared Granville N. Law, a real estate broker here, in court today, where his fifth wife is suing him for divorce. But he added that he had already found the sixth Mrs. Law in a young woman from New York, who is to be one of his witnesses.

Law has forgotten the name of his first wife. He remembers, however, the name of the girl who sued him for breach of promise before he sailed on the troubled waters of matrimony. For she got a verdict of $500 against him. He went into bankruptcy and she failed to collect it.

"I'm a model man," said the hopeful lover of his sixth. "I don't drink, smoke, chew or swear. The women, well, you never can please them, but I hope I'm getting the right one this next time."

ADVERTISING is to the STORE what STEAM is to the ENGINE! Without advertising in some form, a store will no more run today than an engine without steam.

An engine does not run today because there was a fire and steam in it yesterday; Nor because it is a good engine—or the best in the yards;

Nor because people are in the habit of seeing it run and know that it can run. The FIREMAN has to build a FIRE in it TODAY, if it is to be useful TODAY.

A store is not a BUSY STORE unless it is ADVERTISED TODAY.

It is not busy because it is "well known;" nor because it is a good store and well located. It "GOES" because of the PUBLICITY STEAM that is gotten up today.

WINS CONVICTION

M. J. Gettegno Is Fined $100 for Selling Improper Pictures.

IS SCORED BY TRACY

Judge Declares Traffic in Pictures Is Degrading to Morals.

The first conviction as a result of the Post-Dispatch's movement to suppress the sale of improper post cards in St. Louis was obtained Friday in the Clark Avenue Police Court when Judge Tracy fined M. J. Gettegno $100.

Gettegno is the proprietor of a post card rack at the southeast corner of Broadway and Pine street. Thousands of visitors to the city pass his place every day and his display of worse than suggestive cards up to the time of his arrest was in plain view of everyone who walked along the busiest part of Broadway.

Alphonse Howe, brother and law partner of Joseph D. Howe, was counsel for Gettegno.

His objections were frequently overruled and Judge Tracy told him that no argument could be offered in excuse for Gettegno's action in corrupting the morals of the commonwealth.

Sold Cards to Detective.
Gettegno was arrested Sept. 8, after he had sold two post cards to Special Policeman Campbell. Both cards were offered in evidence.

On one was a picture of a mosquito on a woman's leg. Gettegno's defense was that he could not read English and did not know that the inscription under the picture was objectionable. Judge Tracy said that the should have had common sense enough to know that the mind would conceive such a picture would not have a highly moral maxim printed under it.

The other picture showed a man and a woman in a hammock. In both cases Judge Tracy decided that the inscription added to the impropriety of the cards. He said:

"It makes no difference whether, in this defendant's eyes, he merely bought these cards as merchandise from a wholesaler. He is responsible for their degrading effect on the public morals. They are deplorable, vicious, villainous creations."

"I could get one of the wholesalers into this court I would fine him the maximum, $500. Men who would make money at the expense of the morals of the youth are beneath contempt."

Cards Daily Evidence Necessary.
The Judge overruled Howe's motion that the case be thrown out because the charges were vague. He said that pictures themselves constituted the charge and that it was only necessary to show that Gettegno had sold them. This was established by Campbell's testimony.

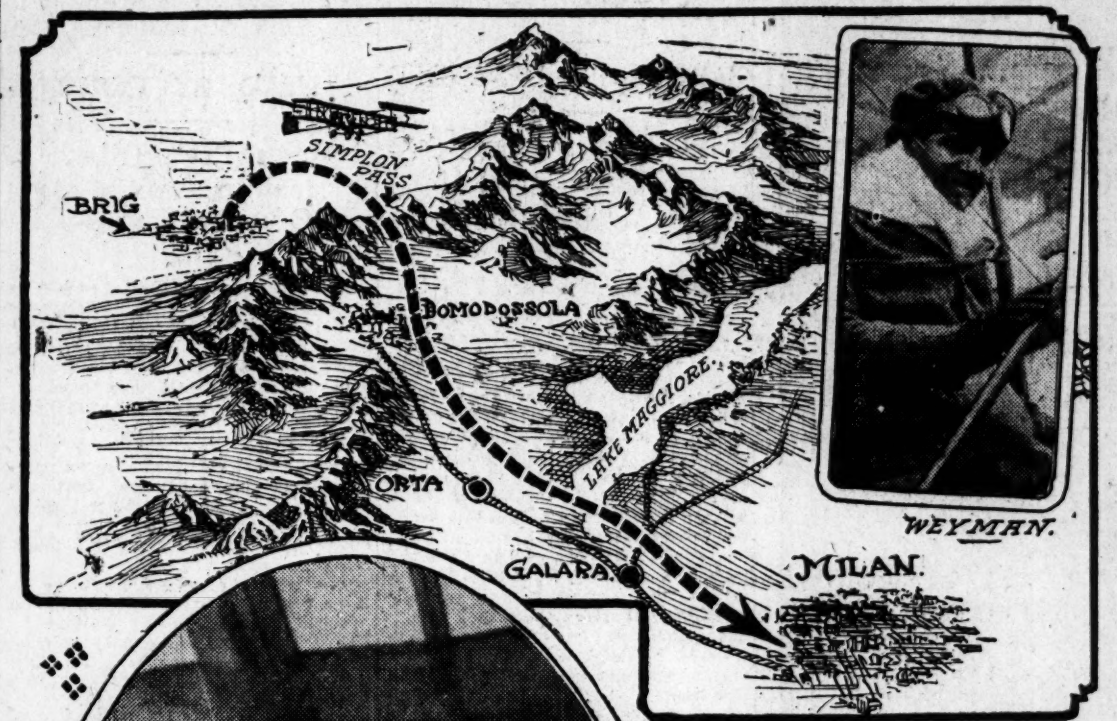

Howe contended that the pictures could not be called indecent as some persons might not consider them so. "If there is danger that a picture-postcard would injure the morals of even one boy it should be suppressed," said Judge Tracy. "In my mind there is no question that these cards are vile and immoral."

Gettegno filed notice of appeal. Two other cases against post-card dealers were continued to Sept. 23.

GIRL BURNED WITH ACID; POLICE FIND
SHE BOUGHT DRUG

Inquiry Stops, Even After Jeanette Freebessyser Asserts Man Threw It.

While her married sister and her sweetheart were singing a popular song at the piano in the parlor of her home, Jeanette Freebessyser stepped into the front yard Thursday night. A few minutes later the rollicking music was drowned by a series of shrieks. Rushing into the parlor, Miss Freebessyser sank upon a couch.

"He tried to kill me," she screamed. "He threw acid on me while I stood at the front gate."

The horrified sister and Walter Heidebrand, the sweetheart, found that the young woman's neck and shoulders were burned. Heidebrand sent in a hurry call for police and Lieut. Donegan and a squad of patrolmen went to the Freebessyser home at 5013 North Second street.

After Miss Freebessyser's burns were dressed by Dr. Lewis of 520 North Broadway and pronounced not serious, she told Lieut. Donegan that while she was standing at the front gate a man rose up in a clump of weeds and threw the acid on her.

Tells of Threat in Note.
"I knew something was going to happen," she said.

"How did you know?" asked Donegan. "That letter I received in this morning's mail."

She took an envelope from her pocket and handed it to Donegan. It read: "Jeanette—Beware! Your life is in danger. This very day your enemy is about to kill you."

"Why, that's strange," said Heidebrand. "The writer of the threatening letter today. Here it is."

Heidebrand's missive read: "As I learned where you were employed from Miss Lind, I found your address in the telephone book. I have been watching you two for a long time and I intend to get her off this earth. I will be down that way tonight. Don't be frightened or stay away, as I won't hurt you. But she shall die this very night. I am no coward."

Donegan went out on the trail of the assassin. At the front gate, inside the yard, he found a baking powder can which bore a strong odor of carbolic acid. He sent to Edward Speckart's drug store.

Druggist Says He Bought Acid.
"Did you sell any carbolic acid lately?" he asked. Speckart consulted his poison register.

"Why, yes," he said. "I sold a dime's worth to Miss Jeanette Freebessyser an hour ago. She said she wanted to wash a dog."

Returning he noted that the clump of weeds from which the young woman said the man threw the acid was 25 feet from the gate.

In the back yard Donegan found several sheets of paper, the same as that on which the threatening notes had been written. The writer of the notes had evidently been practicing on these sheets and several sentences found in the notes were scribbled on them.

After obtaining a sample of Miss Freebessyser's handwriting, and comparing it with the notes, Donegan announced that there was no reason for further investigation.

Further Investigation Wanted.
Members of Miss Freebessyser's family think the police should continue the investigation.

"I did not buy acid last night and if papers were found in the back yard I knew nothing about it," said Miss Freebessyser, Friday. "A man threw acid on me."

TWO AVIATORS FLY

IS HURT BY FALL

George Chavez and M. Paillette Sail Through Wind-Swept Mountain Pass to Italy.

FOLLOWS ROAD NAPOLEON
BUILT; 7000 FEET IN AIR

Peruvian Reaches Domo d'Ossola When Gust Overturns Machine and Is Caught Beneath Motor — Was Trying for $20,000 Prize.

ROME, Sept. 23.—A message received here from Northern Italy says that M. Paillette also has flown over the Alps in an aeroplane, making a flight from Brig, Switzerland, to Stresa, Italy, landing safely. Stresa is 25 miles nearer Milan than Domo d'Ossola.

By Associated Press.

DOMO D'OSSOLA, Italy, Sept. 23.—To George Chavez, the Peruvian aviator, belongs the honor of being the first to fly across the Alps. The daring feat was accomplished today in an attempt to win the prize of $20,000 offered by the Italian Aviation Society of Milan for a flight from Brig, Switzerland, to Milan.

Chavez, however, was unable to complete the trip, having sustained painful injuries when he alighted here. His machine was overturned and he was buried in the wreckage.

Chavez's injuries proved to be more serious than was at first thought. At the hospital to which he was taken the physicians found that both his legs were broken and that the left thigh was fractured. Other parts of the body were bruised. His condition, however, is not considered grave.

Chavez was stunned by his fall and did not regain consciousness until after the medical examination. When his senses returned, he complained of intense internal pains.

As the airman was seen slowly descending, a great crowd gathered. Slowly and gracefully he neared the surface and was about 30 feet above the ground when a gust of wind caught and overturned the monoplane. It fell heavily carrying the aviator beneath it. Chavez was pinned under the motor and painfully hurt. He had fainted on striking the ground and was bleeding profusely when released from the wreckage. The machine was ruined.

FLEW UP 7000 FEET

The American aviator, Weymann, also attempted the flight, leaving the tableland at Brig at 1:10 o'clock this afternoon. Later, word was received here that he had descended after being in the air for four minutes.

After hearing by telephone from Italy that Chavez had made the voyage Weymann again attempted to mount the pass.

He was unable to reach the summit of Simplon and turned back to Brig, landing 27 minutes after he had started.

The weather for the competition was excellent. The morning opened clear on the surface and the haze that gathered on the mountain tops was early blown away. By noon the wind had died.

Chavez believed that the favorable opportunity which he had awaited since Monday morning had come and he decided to make the start. He got away at 1:29 o'clock and rose to a height estimated to be nearly 7000 feet. He passed swiftly over the mountain tops, clearing the summit of Simplon Pass at 1:48. At that time his monoplane was moving as steadily as a railroad train.

FAILED IN SIGHT OF PRIZE

After negotiating Simplon Pass, Chavez followed the route over Gondo Gorge, one of the grandest and at the same time one of the most savage of the Alps. He reached here at 2:11 o'clock.

But for the mishap in alighting, there is little doubt that he would have successfully continued to the goal, as the remainder of the course presents comparatively little difficulty. There is general regret that fate, which permitted him to make what has been described as the most reckless flight ever attempted, should have dealt less kindly with him when he had reached the zone of easy flying and the prize was in sight.

Chavez's most notable feat up to today was in establishing a new altitude record. On Sept. 6 he rose to a height of 8271 feet.

Aeroplane's Failure in Mountains
Meant Certain Death to Aviator

Chavez crossed the Simplon Pass at 1:48, and thus accomplished what has been regarded as the most daring feat proposed for an aeroplane.

He waited patiently for favorable weather along the route where strong winds are the rule. This morning both sides of the Alps reported clear weather, but the top of the Simplon Pass was obscured in a haze.

Chavez determined to make the attempt and rose to a height estimated at nearly 7000 feet. It was known that it would be necessary for him to attain to nearly this altitude to clear the Simplon Pass, the summit of which rises 6922 feet.

He maintained, apparently, this altitude for at least a half hour and followed over the road built by Napoleon in 1800 over the Simplon pass. He accomplished the eight miles that brought him over the top of Simplon and then gracefully sailed the 15 miles to Domo d'Ossola. Arriving at Domo d'Ossola, he had finished the hardest part of his journey, having escaped the high peaks and the jumble of rocky gorges on this side of the summit.

The remaining distance to the city offers less difficulty, but takes the aviator ator over Lake Maggiore and a succession of plains to the goal. The distance from Brig, Switzerland, to Milan, is 75 miles, and the prize was for the aviator who should make the first flight, starting from a tableland 900 feet above the sea level at the head of the Rhone Valley near Brig, Switzerland.

In addition to reaching a height that would bring him over the Simplon summit, and in doing which he must suffer severely from the cold, the aviator was required to guide his frail craft over wide chasms, notably the Gorge of Yvette, where a safe descent would be impossible and an accident must mean an almost certain death. Aviation experts had predicted freely that the only alternative to a successful flight across the Alps was the death of the aviator.

Signal fires along the Napoleon road marked the way as far as Domo d'Ossola and the rest of the course was indicated by flags and buoys anchored on Lake Maggiore. The summit of the pass at Moncenis was illuminated with oxyhydrogen lights and a captive balloon showed the finish line at the aerodrome here.

The flight over the Alps was considered the most daring of any on the planned when a prize of $20,000 was offered for its accomplishment.

The route was to follow the military road built by Napoleon when he crossed into Italy, and for the aviators the course was marked by bonfires and captive balloons.

The topography of the country required that an aviator making the attempt must rise to an altitude of more than 7000 feet, and then drive straight into Simpson Pass, with its treacherous winds.

Prize Offer Closed Friday.
 Once over the Alps, the rules of the race require the aviator to fly across Lake Maggiore and to land at Milan. The offer would have expired tomorrow, and the other birdmen who were on the scene were packing their machines to depart. Heavy fogs had delayed the starters and they had given up hope.

The two men who flew today had both made attempts, only to be beaten back by gales that blew out of the mountains, or to become lost in the fog and forced to descend.

On Sept. 19, though the weather was unpropitious for the undertaking, Weymann and Chavez attempted the flight. Both failed, but not until they had given pretty exhibitions of high flying.

Chavez on that day left the starting ground, a little quadrilateral plateau overlooking the Rhone Valley, and immediately began to rise in sweeping spirals until he had reached an altitude above the towering mountain well opposite. Then he disappeared over the granite shoulder that marks the entrance to the Saline Gorge. A moment later the watchers at that point saw the monoplane wheel and gradually descend, until it alighted on a little grassy slope at the foot of the Sheercliffs.

Weymann in Air Eight Minutes.
 Weymann, after a few moments after Chavez, remained in the air only eight minutes. He ascended to a height of 1700 feet, where he encountered a baffling wind. In landing at the bottom of the Rhone Valley he bent a wheel of his biplane.

Chavez explained that he had reached an altitude of about 6000 feet when he was caught in a violent wind. He observed that the summit of Simpson Pass was obscured by heavy clouds, and decided to return rather than chance landing farther on among the rocks.

MOVING PICTURE VAUDEVILLE MUST GO, IS DECISION

Judge Declares Nickelodeon Performances Not Conducive to Good Morals.

As a means of protecting the morals of the public, and those of stage-struck young persons, Judge Homer Friday upheld the city ordinance forbidding stages in moving picture shows. He dissolved a temporary injunction by which the Building Commission and the License Collector had been prevented from taking action against a Washington Show, 4611 Delmar boulevard. Unless an appeal is successful, the Washington management will have to remove its stage or be closed by the city authorities.

The effect of the decision, it is believed by the city officers, will be to eliminate vaudeville from picture shows.

Attorneys for the picture show argued that the law against stages was unconstitutional, and was dictated by the vaudeville interests. City Counselor Walther replied that the law was in the interest of public morals.

Protection From Vulgarity.
 "The vaudeville performers engaged by moving picture shows," said Walther, "are naturally from the lowest ranks of the profession, and many of them are of the kind who seek to make up by vulgarity for a lack of talent. Many boys and girls are enticed from other occupations, or from school, to rush into the ranks of these amateurs."

"Certainly the morals of the girls employed in the shows are not improved by association with such actors. The lawmakers considered this when they drew the line between moving pictures and vaudeville."

Judge Sale recently rendered a decision in accord with Judge Homer's ruling in the case of the Biddle moving picture show, which was required to remove its stage.

ARBuckle BUYS PEARY'S NORTH POLE SHIP ROOSEVELT

Will Use It in Fleet if He Gets Contract to Raise Maine.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The ship Roosevelt, in which Peary went to the Arctic regions, on his way to the North Pole, has been bought by John Arbuckle of this city. She will be used in connection with some of Mr. Arbuckle's charities for working men and working women. He was the originator of the "Floating Hotel" for persons not able to pay the average summer rates for board and lodging.

The Roosevelt may, however, see more active and honorable service before retiring to the placid career of a floating lodging house or hospital. Mr. Arbuckle hopes to obtain the contract for raising the battleship Maine, and if successful he will make the Roosevelt flagship for the little band of vessels that will undertake the salvage.

The Roosevelt's hardships in the far North," said Arbuckle, "have proved to me the vessel's capabilities and stanchness. I can conceive of no other ship which could approach her for this work. I wanted the best wrecking boat in the world, and I've got it, one which combines tremendous strength and power with sea worthiness of the highest sort."

ILLINOIS G. O. P. ENDORSES TARIFF, TAFT AND DENEEN

Republican Convention Praises Work of Congress and Chief Executive.

TARIFF IS DEFENDED

State Election Laws and Anti-Pass Measures Also Are Favored.

By Associated Press.
 SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 23.—The Republican State convention which met here today adopted a platform approving of the administration of President Taft and Gov. Deneen. The tariff plank follows the lines laid down in the President's campaign letter to Chairman McKinley of the Republican Congressional Committee. The proceedings were harmonious. Speaker Cannon in a vigorous speech declared that the time has come to keep the Republican faith whether or not failure be the result.

The platform commends President Taft and Congress as agents of the people have carried forward another step the principles and policies which have dominated and controlled the Government of the United States for the most progressive half century of civilization.

Administration Praised.

The platform declares: "The great historic organization that destroyed slavery, preserved the Union, restored credit, extended the national domain, established a sound financial system and developed the industries and resources of that country has never been a negative force, but has met all problems with courage and wisdom. The spirit of enlightened progress has never been more manifest in its performance than in the administration and legislation of the last two years."

Recess Tariff Work.

"In accordance with the pledge of the national platform a proclamation was issued by the President within 48 hours after his inauguration, convening Congress in extra session for the purpose of revising the tariff. In less time than was consumed by the previous Congress in a general revision of the tariff and with fuller investigation through the committees named and freer consideration by Congress, the present tariff bill was enacted and signed by the President, Aug. 5, 1909."

"The law has given the Government the needed revenue to change a deficit of $3,000,000 in the ordinary expenditures of the Government to a surplus of $6,000,000 during the first 12 months of its operation."

"The confidence manifested in all lines of legitimate business under this law demonstrates its substantial merit and the sound basis upon which our commercial, industrial and agricultural interests are founded and their continued welfare assured through the operation of these Republican policy of protection."

"The Illinois Republican convention having suggested the plan of a minimum and maximum tariff, which was embodied in the national Republican platform and in the law—we are gratified with the success of the President in using it to secure from all foreign nations the application of their minimum tariff to American exports."

"The free interchange of products between the United States and the Philippine Islands has been established under this law to the advantage of both."

"Notwithstanding the general and manifest advantages of the present tariff law, criticism has been made regarding particular schedules. This was unavoidable and inevitable under present conditions and has been our experience with every general revision of the tariff. The President himself has criticized the present tariff measure."

"The difficulty in framing an entirely satisfactory tariff in the face of the lack of accurate and comprehensive information in regard to the comparative cost of production at home and abroad and the advantage which special interests may take of such a situation."

"President Taft wisely met this difficulty by taking the initiative and requesting Congress to create a tariff commission for the purpose of studying the difference in cost of production at home and abroad to furnish a basis for a revision in the future and create an enlightened public opinion in reference thereto."

State Election Laws Favored.
 The platform also commends the President for his steps to advance conservation.

Other recommendations are for a state-wide civil service law; amendment of State election laws to prevent fraudulent voting; antipass and antitrunk laws; revision of laws governing corporation; an employers' liability and workmen's compensation act; amendment to simplify the process of obtaining the commission form of government; a constitutional amendment providing for the initiative and referendum and direct vote for senators.

Corruption Is Denounced.
 On legislative scandals the platform says:

"We denounce the corruption that has been exposed in the last general assembly and demand the most rigid investigation thereof by grand juries and courts; we favor the exhaustive investigation of the charges which have been made and punishment where guilt is proven."

"We denounce the bi-partisan combination of 60 Democrats and 24 Republicans which controlled the legislative machinery of the last general assembly and disavow any party responsibility therefor."

Speaker Cannon told reporters he approved of the platform. He was cheered and applauded. Mrs. Mary A. Busey, O. W. Hoyt and W. L. Abbott were nominated for trustees of the State University.

The adoption of the resolutions was by acclamation, following which the convention adjourned.

WITH $4,000,000 LOCAL SHOE MEN FIGHT THE TRUST

Four Concerns Offer Plant That Sum for Ownership of All Rights.

IS HELD BY COMBINE

Concerns Pay $125,000 a Month to the United Machinery Co.

The officials of four St. Louis shoe houses are in Boston with $4,000,000 to buy the shoe machinery patents of Thomas G. Plant. The purchase of the patents was the first step in the plan of the St. Louis shoe manufacturers to begin a country-wide war on the United Shoe Machinery Co., known as the shoe machinery trust.

Press dispatches from Boston state that it is rumored there that the United Shoe Machinery Co. got ahead of the St. Louis manufacturers and bought the Plant patents for something more than $5,000,000.

The report that the United company has bought the patents is not credited by St. Louis shoe men. They believe the report started from the negotiations which the St. Louis men are now conducting.

Big Royalties Paid.
 The four companies interested in the purchase of the patents are the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co., the Brown Shoe Co., the Roberts, Johnson & Rand Shoe Co., and the Peters Shoe Co. These four houses now pay the United Shoe Machinery Co. approximately $125,000 a month in royalties for the use of its machines.

A. D. Brown, president of the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co.; George Warren Brown, president of the Brown Shoe Co.; Jackson Johnson, president of the Roberts, Johnson & Rand Shoe Co.; H. W. and Fred Peters of the Peters Shoe Co., and James Campbell, broker, are in the St. Louis party at the Hotel Touraine. Boston, a center of negotiations for the purchase of the patents.

If they succeed, it is their intention to establish, probably in St. Louis, the biggest shoe machinery manufacturing company in the United States. James Campbell, the millionaire broker, was employed by the St. Louis shoe manufacturers to head the syndicate to raise the money for the purchase of the patents. He is said to be in Boston with them now.

Plant approached the St. Louis manufacturers several months ago with a proposition to sell them his patents for $6,000,000 cash. They finally decided to buy the patents if Plant would sell them for $4,000,000. When they left St. Louis they expected to get them for that price.

The St. Louis manufacturers have to pay a royalty of 5 to 10 cents on every pair of shoes turned out of their factories. They are forced to lease the trust machines for a period of 10 years and to return them to the trust at the expiration of the lease, in as good condition as when they were installed.

Must Make Repairs.
 The manufacturers are required to furnish all repairs and buy them from the trust, but when the new parts are put on the machines they become the property of the trust.

The St. Louis manufacturers have been considering the advisability of instituting suits to cancel their contracts. They have had the opinions of the law firms of Johnson, Rule & Allen, Bryan & Christy, Hough & Hough and George B. Lubke as to the validity of the contracts. The lawyers are said to have disagreed as to whether the contracts could be enforced.

The Roberts, Johnson & Rand Co. pays the trust from $30,000 to $35,000 every month in royalties. The Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co. pays approximately $25,000. The Peters Shoe Co., $15,000 and the Brown Shoe Co., $15,000. All of the other St. Louis shoe companies have to pay royalties in accordance with their output.

The United Shoe Machinery Co. started infringement and equity suits against Plant as soon as he equipped his factory with his own machines.

WHAT TO DO FOR SWEATY FEET.
 Excessive perspiration is one of the most common of foot ailments, distressing and embarrassing to those affected, as the odor produced is repulsive to all with whom they come in contact. This trouble can be quickly stopped and eventually overcome by using the following treatment:

Bathe the feet in a basin of warm water in which two tablespoonfuls of Calcidol compound has been dissolved. This will bring an immediate relief, leaving the feet cool, dry and refreshed. It should be repeated each night for about a week and then once or twice a week until the perspiration is controlled. Calcidol compound is a remarkable preparation for all kinds of foot ailments. It is no longer confined exclusively to the use of the medical profession, but can be purchased by the general public from any good druggist. It does not have it in stock he will quickly get it from his wholesale house. A package that sells for twenty-five cents is sufficient quantity to put the feet in fine condition. Calcidol compound is one of the best remedies obtainable for all foot ailments. It has a wonderfully quick action for the relief and cure of corns, bunions, ingrowing nails, chilblains and itchy feet. Frequently one or two applications will result in a cure. The chemists that prepare it also issue a small booklet with each package giving valuable information on all foot troubles.—ADV.

Charlton in Court Where Insanity Plea Was Barred

THIS photograph of Porter Charlton was taken in the courtroom in Jersey City where the confessed murderer of his wife was contesting the extradition proceedings brought by the Italian Government. The New Jersey judge refused to take cognizance of the insanity plea, and took the question of extradition under advisement.

Capt. Scott, brother of Mrs. Mary Scott Castle Charlton, who was thrown in Lake Como, was searched by bailiffs when he entered the courtroom where the hearing was held. Charlton was sent back to jail to await the decision of the judge.

If the decision is against Charlton he will appeal to the State Department at Washington.

ENGINEER IN FIRST WRECK IN HIS SERVICE OF 53 YEARS

Indiana Man With Eight Days to Serve Before Retirement, Was Driving Engine No. 13.

SEYMOUR, Ind., Sept. 23.—A record of 53 years' service as an engineer without having been in a wreck was broken here last night when a Pennsylvania train from Indianapolis to Louisville, with an engine numbered 13, crashed into a Baltimore & Ohio freight train.

The engineer was James McGregor, 70 years old, of Jeffersonville, Ind. No one was injured.

McGregory, who has only eight days more to serve, before being put on the retired list, stopped near the crossing, and without seeing the approach of the freight started forward. McGregor's train cut through the freight, knocking several cars from the track.

ST. LOUIS VOTE UPON PROHIBITION WILL BE 153,000

About 60,000 Register
Thursday, Breaking All Records for One Day.

MANY DISAPPOINTED

More Than 5000 Are Waiting in Line Unable to Enter Polling Places.

ANOTHER CHANCE YET

Those Who Failed to Qualify
Can Do So by Applying to Circuit Clerk.

More than 60,000 names, according to an estimate made Friday morning by Chairman Kortjohn of the Election Board, were added to the voting lists at Thursday's general registration. About 6000 more, he believes, failed through no fault of their own to get on the books.

The new names, added to the nearly 90,000 already on the lists, will make a total of approximately 153,000 registered voters. This is subject to revision by the clerks' canvass, which began Friday morning. The canvass will cut 5000 to 8000 names from the lists, but this will be largely made up by the adding of the names of qualified persons who failed to register Thursday. The final figures, it is expected, will be not less than 153,000. The largest previous registration was 150,065, at the national election of 1908.

General Interest Taken.
This big registration is credited to the work of the business and civic organizations, which sent appeals to every voter to register, and to the great general interest in the election of Nov. 3, in which state-wide prohibition will be an issue. An editorial from the Post-Dispatch, headed "Save St. Louis," and urging a general registration, was sent broadcast throughout the city, and resulted in sending thousands to the registration places who are ordinarily indifferent to the duties of citizenship.

So great were the crowds at many places that even the 14-hour day did not suffice to enroll them all. This was why many who went early in the evening had to wait in line in the faces while they still stood in line at 10 o'clock. This happened most in the districts where workingmen live.

Chairman Kortjohn Friday outlined what must be done by such persons to get on the books.

"They must appear at the precinct polling places on revision day, Oct. 14," he said, "and must there make affidavit to the fact that they were left off the books through no fault of their own. They must then go to the Circuit Clerk, at the courthouse, at any time in the three days following, and make application to be placed on the books. The last time for this appeal is at 10 a. m. Oct. 18. Those who do this will get on the books, if they were entitled to get on yesterday."

Nothing more than a rough estimate of the number registered Thursday can be made before Saturday. All estimates agree on the fact that it was unexpectedly large, and was, in fact, unprecedented.

Not more than 300 of the 403 precincts had been heard from at the time the Election Board's office opened Friday. Many precincts will not report before Saturday, as the law allows the judges and clerks until 8 p. m. Friday to finish their task.

Those who were 50 miles from the city or who were kept by sickness from the polls Thursday have an opportunity to get their names on the lists up to Nov. 2 by applying at the city hall. Those who move before Nov. 2 can be transferred then.

Many to Seek Another Chance.

was being taken to her St. Louis home against her will.

"My wife's relatives have seen me only in bathing costume. I wish to present myself to them in street attire, with the hope of making a better impression than I did in scantier dress. Above all, I am determined to recover my wife. I love her and I believe she loves me, and our marriage observed all the legal forms. I don't care whether she has money or not—I want her only for herself."

10 p. m. Thursday men were still standing in line at many of them. Some officials construed the time limit strictly and closed at the stroke of the clock, while others registered all who were in line at the closing hour, and still others stayed open long enough to accommodate all comers, stopping clocks in some cases after the fashion of legislative bodies.

The usual watch for criminals and repeaters was kept by the police, and the result was five arrests for false registration, all in downtown precincts. Just what the exact registration will be, no figures will show until the close of the final revision, Nov. 2, six days before the election. It will probably be less than the figure reached Thursday.

President Reber of the Board of Public Improvements, stopping at 512 North Vandeventer avenue to register on his way with Mayor Kremlinger to the City Hall, was unwilling to follow the example of other Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt and other distinguished public officials by standing in line. He asked to be admitted ahead of the waiting officials, and policeman, seeing that the Mayor approved the request, let him in. As the Mayor is a member of the Police Board, the policeman could not very well have refused. But three men in the line were so indignant at the preference shown Reber that they abandoned their places and walked away.

DOCTOR REFUSES TO TREAT WOUNDED MAN, NOT A PAUPER

Alton Prisoner, Shot by Police, Is Neglected for Three Hours.

After being shot in the left side by an Alton patrolman, Norman Peppers, 30 years old, remained three hours in the Alton Police Station without medical attention early Friday, when Assistant County Physician J. T. Duggan refused to attend Peppers because he is not a pauper. Dr. J. N. Schaff gave Peppers treatment later and his fee was paid by the Alton police.

Peppers was shot at 12:30 a. m. Friday, when he attempted to escape arrest. Mrs. Pearl Metcalfe complained to the police that Peppers had threatened to kill her, was intoxicated and was waiting on her doorstep armed with a revolver. Patrolman Lewis went with her to her home and found Peppers at the front door. When he told Peppers he was under arrest, Peppers ran and Lewis shot him.

The bullet struck Peppers in the left side in his back and lodged in his chest. He fell after running a block and was taken to the Police Station. Dr. Duggan was called, but refused to attend the man, saying that he is paid by the county to attend only pauper cases, and his duty does not cover city cases of persons able to pay. At 3:30 a. m. Dr. Schaff was called. Peppers is in a serious condition.

Peppers was placed under a peace bond last June on the complaint of Mrs. Metcalfe, who testified that Peppers threatened to kill her. When he went to her home Thursday night and renewed his threat she slipped out of the house and notified the police.

MOTORMAN BLAMED FOR WRECK WHICH KILLED FORTY PERSONS

Company Official Says—Court
Orders Investigation.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Sept. 23.—An investigation by the Wells County grand jury of the cause of the collision between two cars on the Fort Wayne & Wabash Valley traction line at Kingsland in which 40 persons were killed will be begun Monday. A special session of the grand jury has been ordered by Judge White.

According to a statement of F. R. Palsing, claim agent of the traction company, the officials of the company will testify that the responsibility for the wreck is with Motorman Corkwell, of the empty south-bound "extra" car. "Corkwell's order was to lay over 5 minutes at Yorder," said Palsing. "He directly disobeyed the order and attempted to make the next siding. According to our rules, if an extra car cannot make a siding 5 minutes before a car in the other direction is due to pass, the extra must wait even if it loses 15 minutes."

Corkwell, who was seriously injured, has regained consciousness.

Those who have become prematurely gray or who are troubled with scalp or hair diseases, such as falling hair, dandruff, baldness, itching scalp, etc., know full well the humiliation that they cause. There is no need, however, of such conditions. These troubles can be quickly overcome by Crystolis, the new drug recently discovered at the Cresco Laboratories at Scranton, Pa. Since its discovery, a little over a year ago, Crystolis has been found to contain marvelous properties for producing a new growth of hair. In subjecting it to various tests in the worst cases of baldness, dandruff, itching scalp, etc., the results obtained by the experimenting chemists were considered almost miraculous. In every case it was found that where there were any hair roots left it would produce a new and luxuriant growth of hair in from four to six weeks' time. Gray or faded hair was often restored to its natural color in from 10 to 14 days' time. In minor cases of scalp and hair diseases, such as dandruff, falling hair, itching scalp, etc., it was found that these unnatural conditions were corrected and often completely cured by two or three applications. The discovery of Crystolis was a complete put an end to the troublesome scalp and hair diseases that are becoming so common with the American people. Women who have been forced into wearing false hair will greatly welcome this marvelous product, as, aside from its many other virtues, it adds a beautiful gloss and luster to the hair. Besides, it contains no oil and has a tendency to make the hair light and fluffy.

The managers of the Cresco Laboratories believe much faith in Crystolis was authorized to make the following remarks: "They will forfeit $1000 in gold if they fail to prove that Crystolis will grow hair. They will forfeit $1000 in gold if they fail to prove that Crystolis will not the first discoverers of Crystolis. They will forfeit $1000 in gold if every testimonial and sworn statement which they publish is not absolutely genuine. Merely cut out this coupon and mail it to the Cresco Laboratories. MORGAN STREET PROPERTY SELLS AT $600 A FOOT

A plot of 28-feet frontage by a depth of 60 feet on the south side of Morgan street, 44 feet east of Twelfth street, located in the heart of the McKinley station center, was sold at auction to Samuel L. Welmer, wall paper dealer, for $600 a foot for Morgan street frontage.

The southeast corner of High and Morgan streets, 14 feet west of Welmer's purchase, was sold by John A. Nolan, manager of the Meagher Real Estate Co., to the McKinley system for $1000 a front foot, while the northeast corner of High and Morgan streets, 14 feet west of High street and Lucas avenue was bought by the railway company at $1500 a front foot, both being embraced in the plans of the McKinley station and the McKinley system will, it is said, eventually require all the property between Lucas, avenue and Morgan street and between Eleventh, High and Twelfth streets, for its big freight and passenger station.

Auctioneer Henry L. Sutton made this sale in behalf of the Meagher Real Estate Co., obtaining $100 a foot more than it was predicted the sale would yield. The Meagher Real Estate Co. denies that the McKinley system has bought the property through Welmer.

INDICTMENT ISSUED AGAINST POLICEMAN CHARGES PERJURY

Philip Duff Swore False in Guardianship Case, It Is Charged.

An indictment charging Patrolman Philip Duff of the Deer Street District with perjury has resulted from the efforts of William J. Ryan to obtain possession of his 17-year-old son, Philip. The evidence was furnished by Judge Holcomb of the Probate Court, who went before the grand jury after Ryan had made formal application to have Duff's guardianship of the boy set aside. In his petition Ryan alleged that his divorced wife died a week ago and that Duff, though he knew the father was alive, applied for guardianship papers and made affidavit that both of the boy's parents were dead. Duff is now in St. Louis. Ryan is a brother of Jack Ryan, cigar dealer, and former chief clerk at the Planters Hotel.

DOCTOR ADVISED OPERATION

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"A year ago last March I fell, and a few days after there was soreness in my right side. In a short time a lump came and it bothered me so much at night I could not sleep. It kept growing larger and by fall it was as large as a hen's egg. I could not go to bed without a hot water bottle applied to that side. I had one of the best doctors in Kansas and he told my husband that I would have to be operated on as it was something like a tumor."

Induced by a rupture. I wrote to you for advice and you told me not to get discouraged but to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did take it and soon the lump in my side broke and passed away."

Mrs. R. R. Huey, 713 Mineral Av., Galena, Kans.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has proved to be the most successful remedy for curing the worst forms of female ailments, including fibroid tumors, backache, flatulency, indigestion, headache, hot flashes and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result has been worth millions to many suffering women.

If you want special advice write for it to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. It is free and always helpful.

BROWNE ON HAND WHEN DEMOCRATS CONDEMN GRAFT

Illinois Legislator, Acquitted in Lorimer Bribery, Attends Convention.

SAY TAFT AIDS TRUSTS

Platform Declares Against Tariff and Cannon and Criticizes Deane.

With Lee O'Neill Browne in attendance, the Illinois Democratic convention, East St. Louis Friday afternoon listened to the reading of a plank condemning legislative dishonesty and favoring popular election of United States senators. The plank, which was adopted by acclamation, was a direct result of the charges in the Lorimer case was applauded by the assembled Democrats. In the recent revelations, it was shown that legislative fund money changed hands in a hotel bathroom.

Browne, who was acquitted of a bribery charge and renominated for the Legislature, was the center of interest among the delegates. The remainder of the platform, as presented by the Resolutions Committee, contained anti-trust and anti-Cannon planks and demands for several kinds of labor legislation and for the merit system in appointments at State institutions. It denounces trusts and favors the rigid enforcement of all anti-trust laws. An anti-corrupt plank set limiting amount of candidates' expenses. is urged.

The railroad plank stands for fair returns to roads, Government control, and physical valuations on which to base rates. Personal liberty, conservation, road laws and tariff for revenue only are endorsed. The Republicans are denounced for not revising the tariff downward.

Deane is Criticized. Gov. Deane and his party are charged with having failed to enact a comprehensive civil service law, and the spoils system is called a fruitful source of graft in Illinois politics.

Henry T. Rainey, chairman of the convention, which was held in the Avenue Theater. In his opening speech he called President Taft "a large body surrounded by men who know just what they want," and said the President was subservient to the trusts. He predicted a Democratic victory this fall, and said the insurgents had done nothing except to shut off the supply of gasoline for Speaker Cannon's automobile.

Rainey and Champ Clark, minority leader in the House, were the chief speakers at the convention, which was called for the purpose of nominating three trustees for the State University and to prepare a State platform. Mayor Cook delivered the address of welcome.

Rainey, in his address as chairman, said that although professing to be against Cannon and the Rayne-Aldrich bill, the insurgents had voted for them when the Democrats gave them an opportunity to defeat the bill and depose the Speaker.

Attack on Taft Not Needed. "I do not desire," he said, "to attack the administration of President Taft. It is not necessary. In all our history as a nation, no administration has been so thoroughly discredited. He has surrounded himself by an official family who represent and who stand for those criminal trusts against which the people cry out in vain. He has been subservient to those interests which prey upon the country, and has been controlled by them as no other President ever has been. He has been most aptly described as being 'a large body surrounded by men who know just what they want.'"

"Every day the Republican majority in the House gives up more and more of the power that belongs to the people, to the Speaker of the House, and to the President, until recently, a President of the United States felt strong enough to select his own successor. He does not at present, seem to be particularly well pleased with the choice he made."

Clark Clark, recognized aspirant to the speakership, was greeted with enthusiasm by the convention. He told the delegates that the party would win a victory this fall through Republican divisions, but that to follow up that victory it must have definite policies of its own.

Clark Wants Definite Policy. "We cannot depend upon Republican factionalism alone to win," he said. "That may give us the House this fall without effort on our part, but the chances are that Republican factionalism alone would not give us victories beyond this year. We must have a program of our own, looking towards better government than the Republicans have given to us."

"Twenty-three Republicans in the House and seven Republicans in the Senate revolted against the stupendous confidence game which the standard leaders were attempting to play upon the American people and warned them of the consequences. Straws show which way the wind blows and a few days ago a very large straw blew out of Beverly in the shape of a letter announcing that henceforth and forever the insurgent Republican statesmen would have an equal chance at the pie counter of the regulators."

Clark denied Cannon's statement that he had announced a purpose to vote to remove the duty on wool.

Among the prominent politicians in attendance are: Roger C. Sullivan, Democratic National Committeeman; John P. McCarthy, former Superintendent of Streets and Commissioner of Public Works in Chicago; H. N. Wheeler, editor of the Quin-Journal, who wrote the platform; George E. Brennan, Ben-Jamin M. Mitchell and former Mayor John P. Hopkins of Chicago.

FORTIETH PARALYTIC STROKE FATAL TO 60-YEAR INVALID

Victim of Infantile Paralysis at 18 Months Lives to Be 61, Always Helpless.

ALTOONA, Pa., Sept. 23.—An invalid for almost 60 years, Charles M. Forbes, aged 61, died at his home here after his fortieth paralytic stroke. Forbes' case was, so far as local doctors have been able to discover, unprecedented in medical records.

When a child of 18 months, in Harrisburg, where he was born, he was stricken with infantile paralysis, which is now prevalent in many parts of the country, and was never able to walk.

Stroke after stroke left him just a little more helpless than before. Some of the ablest physicians in the country have examined him, but could grant no relief. A man in size, but a child in mind for the past 10 years, he has been as helpless as a baby.

His county is said to be backing him solidly, and he is regarded as a strong candidate. E. E. Ellingwood of Bisbee is also a candidate for the presidency.

"The Democratic candidates all over the Territory were pledged to stand for rights of the people, and now that it is certain that our party will be in control of the convention, I wish to say that I would stake my life that every party pledge will be carried out by the Democratic delegates," said Mr. Cobb.

RACING AUTO GOING
70 MILES AN HOUR
WRECKED, 2 HURT

By Associated Press.
MINEOLA, N. Y., Sept. 23.—George Robertson, the automobile racer, was thrown from his automobile while taking a trial spin this morning on the Long Island Motor Speedway. He was unconscious when picked up and rushed to a hospital, where it was said he was seriously, if not fatally injured.

Robertson was going at an estimated speed of 70 miles an hour in the new Benz car which he was to drive in the Vanderbilt Cup race a week giving an initial try-out. When he struck the Massapequa curve, considered the most dangerous in the course, the car gave a jump, swerved from the course and was completely overturned. Robertson and Stephen Reynolds, a New York man whom he was carrying as a passenger, were thrown 20 feet or more, clear of the wreckage.

Reynolds also was unconscious when another car came along. He was found to be suffering from internal injuries.

Robertson was suffering from a bad scalp wound, a sprained or fractured arm, concussion of the brain and possible internal injuries. Surgeons said, however, that the automobilist's injuries might not be so serious as was at first feared.

The race course paid circulation of the Post-Dispatch in St. Louis and its suburbs is greater than that of any other English Daily in the world.

WOMEN TO SEEK VOTES FOR WETS
IN PARLOR TALKS

To Talk to Wives and Mothers in Effort to Influence Men.

WILL CANVASS STATE

Anti-Prohibition Association Agents to Appear at Public Gatherings.

Young women organizers will be employed by the Missouri Anti-Prohibition Association to attend social functions and public gatherings in various Missouri cities and towns to create interest in the anti-prohibition movement. By talking with the wives and daughters of business men, the young women are expected to win many votes.

The central office of the organization was opened Thursday in suite 915-918 Chemical building, in charge of Ben Westhus, vice-president of the association. Speed Mosby, former State Pardon Attorney, will arrive in St. Louis in a few days to assume active duty as secretary.

T. W. Cunningham, president of the State association, is in charge of the Joplin branch, and Henry C. Lambert is in charge at Kansas City. Six stenographers are employed in the St. Louis office, and this number will be increased to 50 within a week, according to Westhus.

Long-Distance Phones.
With eight long-distance telephones in the headquarters, the officers expect to keep in close touch with the organizers and workers throughout the State.

In its declaration of principles, the association sets forth: "This organization is not formed to defend saloons, but is organized by business men to promote the right of local self-government as to the sale and manufacture of liquors."

The officers of the organization are: President, T. W. Cunningham, Joplin; vice-president, Ben Westhus, St. Louis; secretary, Speed Mosby, Jefferson City; treasurer, H. C. Lambert, Kansas City; directors, Jet Clayton, St. Joseph, Owen Miller, St. Louis, and Judge J. L. Thomas, De Soto.

MRS. ANNA HAMILTON BAILEY'S CHARITIES REVEALED BY DEATH

Entire Estate Is Believed to Have Been Given for Relief and Church Work.

The bounteous but secret charities of Mrs. Anna Hamilton Bailey, benefactor of newboys and waifs, have been revealed by her death. Her funeral was held Friday from her home, 300 Lindell boulevard, to St. Francis Xavier's Church.

She not only contributed much to Father Dunne's Newboys Home, but presided personally at many banquets for the boys. It is understood that she left $100,000 for the endowment of a chapel in the New Cathedral. Almost every Catholic organization in St. Louis has benefited by her generosity. Her entire estate, it is believed, has been bequeathed to charities and religious institutions.

Mrs. Bailey was an Episcopalian, but was the friend of Archbishop Kenrick and Cardinal Gibbons. She converted her to Catholicism and became her godfather at her baptism. Her body will be buried in Bellefontaine Cemetery in the family lot, as her relatives died Protestants. She was the daughter of the late Judge Alexander Hamilton and the widow of Lewis Bailey, a Boston capitalist, who died 27 years ago.

OWEN MILLER AGAIN HEADS
STATE FEDERATION OF LABOR

Anti-Prohibition Resolution Adopted by Unionists Before They Adjourn.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 23.—Before adjourning to meet in St. Joseph next September, the annual convention of the Missouri State Federation of Labor adopted a resolution aligning the organization with the opposition to the prohibition movement.

Owen Miller of St. Louis was re-elected president and J. T. Smith of Kansas City secretary-treasurer. Frank Howard and J. T. Fitzpatrick of Kansas City and C. F. Leedom of Moberly were elected vice-presidents. Charles Hertenstein of St. Louis was chosen delegate to the meeting of the American Federation of Labor.

C. B. Dysart of Moberly, J. W. Le Fever of St. Louis and James A. Dorris of Joplin were elected on the Legislative Committee to represent the State Federation during the session of the Forty-sixth General Assembly.

The anti-prohibition resolution puts the federation on record as favoring the strict regulation of the liquor traffic under existing laws.

MEETS FRIEND, TAKES NAP, AND LOSES HIS CLOTHES

About to Go Home in Barrel, but Hotel Clerk Comes to Rescue.

L. B. Hawkins of 1106 Morrison avenue met a man Thursday night, and after scraping up an acquaintance with him, visited several saloons. A few hours later Hawkins accompanied his new friend to the Laclede Hotel, where the man said he was stopping. Feeling tired Hawkins lay down and slept. When he awoke his friend was missing. Hawkins looked for his clothes and they, too, were missing. He went about to go home in a barrel when the hotel clerk heard of his plight and got some clothing for him. The room where the robbery occurred was rented only temporarily to a man Thursday evening.

COBBLER WAS LIGHTING PIPE WITH PRIZED BALZAC LETTER

Discovery of Collection in His Hands Results in Gift for Academy.

PARIS, Sept. 22.—The Comte de Louvenjoul has just presented by will to the French Academy a very valuable collection of letters written and signed by Balzac. The Comte de Louvenjoul became possessed of them in a peculiar way. One day he saw a cobbler lighting his pipe with a twisted letter. The ink on the letter was old, and the handwriting interested the Comte, who asked the cobbler to let him look at it. He recognized Balzac's handwriting and signature and gave the man $4 for his letter. The cobbler told him he had a lot of them. He had bought them in a heap of waste paper to wrap shoes in and he sold them all to Comte de Louvenjoul, who, in his turn, has bequeathed them to the French Academy.

SENATORS REFUSE LORIMER'S PLEA TO POSTPONE INQUIRY

Investigation of the Charges Bearing on Senator's Election Begins Monday.

RECORD AS EVIDENCE

Journal of Illinois Legislature Will Be Introduced During Hearing.

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—The Senatorial Subcommittee on Privileges and Elections, which convened here to investigate the alleged fraud in the election of United States Senator William Lorimer, decided today to proceed with the taking of testimony, and not to postpone action until after the November elections, as urged by Lorimer's attorney.

At the opening of today's session Chairman Burrows also announced the committee would permit Attorney Alfred S. Austrian, representing the Chicago Tribune, and former Judge Elbridge Haney, representing Senator Lorimer, to appear in the hearing.

Attorney Haney presented his formal motion for a continuance of the hearing until after the November elections. The reasons advanced were in substance similar to the argument made by him yesterday when he declared that Senator Lorimer would be handicapped through a disinclination of legislators now under indictment to testify before the committee.

The Tribune's list of witnesses was submitted and the committee began consideration of methods of procedure.

The committee's decision overruling Senator Lorimer's plea for delay was announced by Senator Paynter of Kentucky, who said:

"The committee has given due consideration to the presentation made for a continuance of this hearing until after the November elections and has not found the reasons contained therein of sufficient weight to warrant the delay." It was announced that the session would adjourn as a public meeting until Monday morning to permit Senator Burkeley of Connecticut and Frazier of Tennessee, other members, to be present.

The committee has decided to ask for the official record of the Illinois Legislature containing the balloting during the period preceding and including the election of Lorimer.

2.06 A KILOWATT HOUR IS UNION ELECTRIC'S CITY BID

Power Is Offered at 9.94 Less Than Rate Charged Small Private Consumer.

In its bid for lighting the downtown group of city buildings, made public Friday, the Union Electric Light and Power Co. quotes a rate of 2.66 cents a kilowatt hour for light and power service. The rate does not include lamps and appliances. The rate to small private consumers, including lamps and appliances, is 12 cents a kilowatt hour.

The city is now furnishing its own current for lighting the buildings, from the City Hall lighting plant, at a cost of 1.8 cents a kilowatt hour. This includes the cost of heating the City Hall, but it does not include certain items such as insurance and depreciation.

President Reber of the Board of Public Improvements said Friday that it would take several weeks' figuring to determine whether the city would do better to enlarge its present plant, to build a new one or to accept the Union Electric offer.

The company's bid, signed by President Allen S. Miller, is for a rate of 2.17 cents a kilowatt hour for service up to 60,000 kilowatt hours a month; 2.06 cents from 60,000 to 70,000; 1.92 cents from 70,000 to 80,000; and 1.8 cents for more than 80,000. The estimated amount of current needed for the buildings, including the new municipal building, is 740,232 kilowatt hours a year, or between 60,000 and 70,000 a month.

TOLLMAN'S DAUGHTER TAKES CROWN PRINCE FOR A FLIRT

BERLIN, Sept. 22.—While in Marlenburg the Crown Prince of Germany and his suite motored through the city to a bridge which enacts a toll, and had almost reached the middle of the bridge when the pretty 16-year-old daughter of the bridegroom called:

"You will have to pay the toll, gentlemen."

Neither the Prince nor his suite knew about the toll, but when they heard the girl's voice they stopped. She went up to them. The Crown Prince smiled. She thought he meant to flirt, and called:

"Will the gentlemen kindly pay the toll immediately. I cannot wait an hour for the money. It is 20 cents for both automobiles."

The Prince asked if she knew him. She said she did not, and did not care to. He gave a $5 gold coin to her, and before she could bring the change the automobiles were gone.

INDICTED MAN ILL; WIFE DYING

Former Congressman's Condition Causes Delay in Trial.

FRANKLIN, Pa., Sept. 22.—Mrs. Joseph C. Sibley, wife of the former Republican Congressman from this district, now under indictment for the alleged corrupt use of money in an effort to gain renomination, is seriously ill and supposed to be dying. Her husband also is in a serious condition. Sibley, a millionaire, expended $40,000 in his campaign for renomination. He succeeded, but because of the scandal attending his campaign and his illness, he declined the nomination. The ordeal seriously impaired his health, and recently when his case came up for a hearing, it was found necessary to postpone it on account of his illness.

FARMER HANGS HIMSELF WITH STRAP OFF HIS WOODEN LEG

Christ Hecht, a wealthy farmer, 33 years old, who lived one-half mile north of Thomas Station, Clayton, Mo., hung himself Wednesday in an outhouse near his farm, using a hook and halter, which had been a support for his wooden leg. His son, A. Hecht, said his father had been in poor health and lately had often wished he was dead. Hecht was reputed to be worth $20,000.

Revolutionary Treatment of Disease

Modern investigation has developed the science of prevention—the systematic killing of germs before they are able to kill you.

Foremost among all preventive measures—a veritable marvel of the age—is the standard C-N Disinfectant. C-N has all the effectiveness of Carbolic Acid, Bichloride of Mercury, Peroxide of Hydrogen, but C-N is non-poisonous and non-caustic. It is as harmless to human life as it is certain to kill germs and banish insects.

C-N used systematically in all cleaning operations from cellar to garret kills the germs and makes the home secure from disease. Everything that it touches, it converts into pure cleanliness. It is a power for purity—an inexpensive health insurance.

Get a bottle of C-N and use C-N as directed. You will be amply repaid by immunity from disease and freedom from vermin.

Soap and water alone will not kill germs, and so they leave the invisible, most dangerous filth. C-N destroys this malignant filth. To use C-N is to create absolute cleanliness.

That's why C-N is also the best antiseptic. It destroys poisonous germs on cut, bruise or burn, and so instantly relieves pain, and quickly heals.

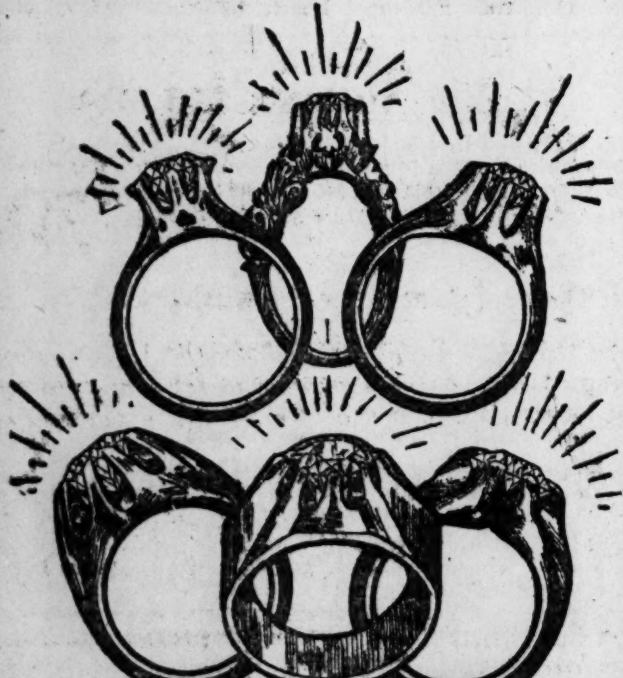

C-N should be in every home, within ready reach for constant use.

ST. LOUIS SYMPHONY CONCERT AT COLISEUM FRIDAY NIGHT

Varied Program Is to Be Presented in Connection With Pure Food Show.

Max Zach, who arrived Thursday from Boston to conduct the St. Louis Symphony concert at the Pure Food Show Friday night, has come two months in advance of the regular Symphony season for this concert. Sixty-five musicians will play popular selections.

Among the numbers to be heard are the two waltzes, Strauss' "Vienna Blood," and Kossak's "Badner Marlin," and three stirring marches, Von Blon's "March of Victory," Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance," and Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever." For opera lovers there are selections from "Poet and Peasant," "Lucia" and "Tannhauser." The 10 numbers of the program cover a wide range of musical taste.

The musical features of the Pure Food Show have been usually attractive all week, prominent soloists appearing each night with Popping's Orchestra. One of the greatest successes of the week were the soprano solos Thursday night by Miss Agnes Conrad, a pupil of Mrs. Georgia Lee Cunningham. Saturday night W. A. Rau will play cornet solos and John Adams will give baritone selections.

$10 PIN MONEY IN 21 YEARS

Man With Good Bank Account Starved Her, Wife Says.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—Charging that her husband, Henry F. Altman, has given her only $10 during their 21 years of married life, and that she and her two children have practically starved in the last two years, Mrs. Hattie Altman has filed a suit for maintenance. She sets forth in the petition that Altman has several thousand dollars in the bank and recently received $2000 on an endowment policy.

"His failure to properly provide for his family is due to his miserly and mean nature," Mrs. Altman says.

CONVICT TO RISK LIFE AS PRICE OF HIS LIBERTY

Life-Time Prisoner Will Be Given Chance to Fight Tuberculosis for Freedom.

COURTS TO DECIDE

Indiana Governor Likes Idea but Wants Judicial Authority for Act.

MUNCIE, Ind., Sept. 22.—Great interest is taken in this State in the announced plan of pardoning a convict under sentence of life who is willing to take the chance of inoculation for bovine tuberculosis. The experiment would be made in the interest of science. Doctors say that as they would be on watch for the disease they could detect it at first incision and probably cure it. Gov. Marshall likes the suggestion but doubts the legality of offering pardon on that condition and is averse to taking the responsibility on his own initiative. The doctors will try to remove his scruples by getting a judicial opinion and reinforcing it by public petitions.

Service to humanity is the motive in this proposition. It is a mooted question whether persons can contract the disease from the milk or meat of cows afflicted with it. Many physicians hold that the bovine tubercles are of a distinct type and become impotent in the human system.

The object of the health authorities is to settle definitely the question by direct transformations from diseased cattle and by feeding the milk and meat of such cattle to subjects under experiment. Then they would watch carefully for results.

Dr. W. E. Coover, State Veterinarian, is very keen to make the experiments. The wholesale destruction of diseased cattle, he is not justified, while it remains doubtful if such animals menace the health of humans. If it may be shown that they do not, economies may be effected by their isolation of treatment for a cure. If proved that they do not, the disease would be removed from the field of controversy.

"Let us suppose the worst," Dr. Coover said today, "that the inoculated convict dies from the disease. Would that be worse than to drag out his life behind the bars, devoid of hope? Sympathy aside, why should a man who must always remain a convict love his life dearly or why should the State consider him as a free man?"

"I believe that the average life-term man would jump at this chance to breathe free air again and I am equally convinced that the State has a moral right to offer life-term men this means of release. I am not talking of forcing convicts into such experiments. That would certainly be illegal. Let it be a matter of free will.

"Most convicts would figure as I do. Maybe the bovine tubercle is not active in humans. In that case inoculation would be harmless, as would milk and meat. Suppose the tubercle to be pernicious. A man under experiment knows that the doctors are looking out for him and that he will catch them as soon as they appear. It is common knowledge also that in its early stages the disease can be handled and controlled, if not cured. Thus a man is reasonably sure of the enjoyment of his usual life for years, with a free life and he may live to an old age and never have the disease. When he figures that way there is every inducement for him to take the chance.

Governor Peary Notoriety.

"Gov. Marshall agrees, I think, that the plan is both humane and practical. He recognizes that the convict under experiment would be submitted to imminent danger and that by submitting himself he might gain both freedom and health. Nor does he doubt that many doomed men would be glad to avail themselves of the offer we would make.

"Although he thinks the plan has much merit, I could not see from what he said that in addition to doubt of his legal right to offer pardon on such terms he dreads the possible notoriety that it would entail if he were to act without explicit authority. As he believes in the plan the thing to do is to get him the authority. Some state is sure to authorize such experiments. I shall try to have Indiana take the lead.

"Here is opportunity to confer distinct benefit on the race by disposing finally of a scientific doubt. The experiments are proposed on persons who are legally dead, every man of whom is eager for freedom. It is more than an even chance that no permanent harm would come to anyone from inoculation.

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 22.—A highwayman with a mania for robbing those he robbed operated in Denver last night to the discomfort of three men who were found by police, based from the effect of a drug. Their valuables and most of their clothing had been taken.

The first to be robbed was William Sanford, a Kansas City traveling salesman, who lost a diamond ring, a gold watch, his money and his coat and vest.

Manuel Sanchez, a Mexican, who was the next to encounter the robber was allowed to retain only an overcoat and a pair of socks. Alexander Egan, a ranchman was found in an alley with a string tie knotted about his neck. That was all the clothing he had.

KNITTING AND CLOCHETING

New Knit Coat with Blouse Effect

This is a striking example of the radical improvements that have lately been made in sweater designing. Every line is in accord with prevailing fashion yet the coat has distinctive character that can be obtained only with yarn.

The model is made in two tones of brown, a beautiful tan for the body and a deep rich brown for the front and trimmings. It is made of Fleisher's German town Zephyr which combines with the shape-retaining qualities of all the Fleisher Yarns a softness of thread that produces a smooth close texture.

Full directions for making this and many other new and staple articles may be found in the (eighth) edition of Fleisher's Knitting and Crocheting Manual, an invaluable handbook for beginner and expert. Contains a complete course of instruction in the various stitches and is the only authoritative guide to fashion in articles made of yarns.

United States mail to defraud.

Warms confessed that he had used the mails in carrying on the business of his marriage bureau. His circulars depicting the sadness of lonely old age were read in court. One of his books, sent to prospective customers, was entitled: "The Way to Win a Woman's Heart." It contains the following passage:

"You do not know what it is to live alone, uncared for; unknown when old age overtakes you. Solitude fills one with horrible agony. Solitude at home by the fireside at night is so profound, so sad."

HOW A DOCTOR'S PRESCRIPTION WAS GIVEN THE NAME IT BEARS

Absolute Truth of Story Attested by Guarantee to Give $25,000.00 to Any Charitable Institution if Shown Otherwise.

Father John's Medicine Builds Up the Body and Strengthens System Without Use of Alcohol or Dangerous Drugs—A Doctor's Prescription. 50 Years in Use.

Half a century ago, Rev. Fr. John O'Brien of Lowell, Mass., through overwork and exposure, became seriously run down. A cold and stubborn cough and lung trouble threatened his life. An eminent specialist gave Father John a prescription to cure the cold and remove the lung trouble, as well as to build up and strengthen the body. The clergyman began to improve at once, the cough disappeared and his lungs healed. It corrected his digestion, made new tissue, and Father John was soon restored to his former health and strength.

It will cure all throat and lung troubles, prevent Consumption, and make flesh and strength if taken faithfully. It is not a patent medicine, and does not contain alcohol or poisonous drugs.

As a guarantee that the story of Father John's Medicine is absolutely true, the sum of $25,000.00 will be given to any charitable institution if it can be shown otherwise.

MEMPHIS WOMAN, DIVORCE PENDING, SHOOT A BROKER

Mrs. Krauss Asserts Victim Has Proved False in Love and Finance.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 22.—Memphis folks are speculating on the outcome of Mrs. Daisy Turvey Krauss' latest escapade, that of shooting Franklin H. Griffith, a mine broker, in Los Angeles, Cal. Mrs. Krauss makes a dual charge against Griffith, charging that he cheated her in love and swindled her in mine investments. Griffith answers blackmail.

Mrs. Krauss was arrested. Griffith was not seriously wounded one bullet going through his right arm, the other striking his collar bone.

Mrs. Krauss is a dashing woman and has won a considerable reputation as a writer of books and magazine articles. Her family is well known and after her marriage with Dr. Krauss, a bacteriologist of high reputation and considerable wealth, she was well received in local society. The two were so absolutely different in personality that they soon agreed to live apart.

Mrs. Krauss went to Tucson, Ariz., for her health, and while there met Griffith. Both he and Mrs. Krauss admit that at this time they became much attached to each other, and that they became engaged to marry. Griffith adds that when he found that Mrs. Krauss was not divorced, he declined to have anything more to do with her.

Mrs. Krauss later gained considerable notoriety in Los Angeles by declaring that Griffith had led her to make bad investments in his mines with the money given her by Dr. Krauss upon their separation, and that he would not repay her. She then announced that she was returning here to seek a reconciliation with her husband.

If she tried that, she failed, for she was next heard of in Vicksburg, where she filed suit for divorce. Dr. Krauss filed a cross bill and Griffith's name figured frequently in the evidence. The suit is understood to be waiting on the taking of the deposition of Mrs. Krauss.

EDUCATION DOES NOT LESSEN CRIME, TEACHER'S THEORY

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 22.—Prof. D. C. Rogers of the State University, while a believer in public education, does not believe that public education as it now exists has much to do with the diminution of crime. Prof. Rogers spoke before the sixth annual conference of the State Board of Control and the superintendents of the different State institutions.

"There are some states," he said, "in which there are many illiterates and few crimes, others in which there are few illiterates and many crimes, others in which there are few crimes and few illiterates and others in which there are many crimes and many illiterates. At the same time, I have the greatest interest in the educational methods of the reformatory system, the parole system and the probation system. I believe each of these methods to be of incalculable value so long as it is treated as an incomplete method to be used in connection with other methods. Popular education is not a new proposition. What about its results in the past? Can we by referring to statistics find definite proof of its effectiveness in diminishing crime? The results generally show an increase in the record of crime during the time in which education has improved.

"I believe one reform most needed in the penal system of this country is the increasing efficiency of the detective agencies and the redefining of the severity with which graver offenses are punished, especially in dealing with those who have made crime a profession."

Prof. Rogers holds manual training to be nearest to ideal education.

DRINKING AND BETTING MEN BARRED FROM GRAND JURY IN COURT OPENED WITH PRAYER

Lodge Members Not Accepted on Jury to Which Ten Commandments Are Read.

GULFPORT, Miss., Sept. 22.—Daily sessions of the Circuit Court here are being opened with prayer, ministers of the city coming in for that service. After prayers, the ten commandments are read to the jury. Special Judge T. M. Evans is responsible for this unusual program. Judge Evans was appointed to serve during the illness of Judge Barrett.

The matter of grand jury selection became of great importance under the new Judge. He personally questioned each talemán, asking him if he had ever bet on anything, if he had ever been drunk or if he belonged to any secret order or to any club. An affirmative answer to any of these questions brought instant discharge from the jury.

This search for a grand jury to meet the specifications of the special judge required the first day of the session, and much to the surprise of the attorneys, 20 men who answered no to all of the above questions were secured.

Mr. Evans was once Police Judge here and his strict interpretation of the Sunday laws are still well remembered.

HIGH SCHOOL BARS CHINESE

Georgia Law Operates Against Niece of Attache of Embassy.

MACON, Ga., Sept. 22.—May Ling Soong, a Chinese girl, has been barred from the Gresham High School, a county institution here, because she is not of the Caucasian race. She is a niece of Bing Chun Wan, who is connected with the Chinese embassy at Washington.

Miss Soong came to Macon to enter Wesleyan College, but was found deficient in some of her studies, and it was suggested that she enter the Gresham High School to prepare. The law creating the Bibb County Board of Education requires that all students of the Gresham High School must be of the Caucasian race.

PROMPTLY ENDS DYSPEPSIA, HEARTBURN, GAS AND OTHER MISERY IN STOMACH.

You can eat anything your stomach craves without fear of indigestion or dyspepsia, or that your food will ferment or sour on your stomach if you will take a little Diapiesin occasionally.

Your meals will taste good, and anything you eat will be digested; nothing can ferment or turn into acid or poison or stomach gas, which causes Belching, Dizziness, a feeling of fullness after eating, Nausea, Indigestion (like a lump of lead in stomach), Bilelessness, Heartburn, Water brash, Pain in stomach and intestines or other symptoms.

Headaches from the stomach are absolutely unknown where this effective remedy is used. Diapiesin really does all the work of a healthy stomach. It digests your meals when your stomach can't. A single dose will digest all the food you eat and leave nothing to ferment or sour and upset the stomach.

Get a large 50-cent case of Pape's Diapiesin from your druggist and start taking now, and in a little while you will actually brag about your healthy, strong stomach, for you can then eat anything and everything you want without the slightest discomfort or misery, and every particle of impurity and gas that is in your stomach and intestines is going to be carried away without the use of laxatives or any other assistance.

Should you at this moment be suffering from indigestion or any stomach disorder, you can get relief within five minutes.—ADV.

EDITORS SWAP TRUTHS (?) ABOUT THEIR PAPERS

Molders of the Minds of the Masses Here for Convention.

ARE OF BOTH PARTIES

Neither Francis Nor Reed Asked to Speak at the Democratic Banquet.

Missouri newspaper editors of both parties swapped circulation figures and political surmises in the lobbies of St. Louis hotels Friday. The Democratic editors held a meeting during the morning at the Southern, and the Republican editors at the Jefferson. They will banquet at those hotels Friday evenings.

While James A. Reed and David R. Francis, rival candidates for the United States senatorial nomination, are expected to be present at the Democratic press banquet, neither is to speak.

No invitations have been extended for the banquet, which will be for 500, but it is understood that Reed and Francis will attend as guests. The omission of invitations is considered a diplomatic way of avoiding speeches by the senatorial candidates, as it was feared such talks might break up an otherwise harmonious gathering.

They Fear Reed.

Gossip about the Southern Friday indicated that the editors were not afraid Francis would say anything out of order, but some feared that Reed might extend a welcome back to Democratic fold to Francis and offer to kill the fatted calf. Reed has been vigorous in his criticisms of Francis' party record on the stump.

President H. J. Simmons opened the session of the Democratic editors shortly after 10 o'clock in the Southern. He said the newspaper men were not here to ask harmony, as perfect harmony had been attained by the party in Kansas City in January. He advocated standing together against the Republican party, and its decision to revise the tariff upward.

Editors Entertained.

At 1 p. m. the editors were entertained at luncheon by representatives of the St. Louis Police Department, which is advocating the adoption of a police pension law by the next session of the Legislature. Sergt. James Healey represented the policemen at the dinner.

In his speech to the Republican editors at their meeting at the Jefferson ex-Mayor Walbridge asked that they be always ready to strike at fraud and corruption in government, municipal, public utilities and commercial life.

"But, remember," he further qualified, "all these evils can be done away with by evolution, rather than revolution. There is no necessity for the latter. I hope you will remember that this country is the greatest nation of the globe, and that it was made by 50 years of Republicanism."

Capt. Henry King, as president of the Republican Editorial Association, introduced Mayor Kreisman as a "good fellow." He was the first speaker. "When the rights of the people are to be fairly and impartially presented," said the Mayor, "it is the Republican editors that do it."

John E. Swanger, editor of the Springfield Republican, made a talk on honest newspaper work. About 75 were at the meeting.

STATE COMMITTEE HOLDS A MEETING

Capt. Allen of the Old Guard Stays Out of the Conference.

Capt. Albert O. Allen, former State auditor, who went down in defeat with the "old guard" of Missouri Democracy in 1904, was the sole representative of that faction of the party to appear at the meeting of the Democratic State Committee at headquarters in the Commonwealth Trust building Friday.

Capt. Allen arrived after the committee had gone into executive session and did not enter the councils of the party. Democrats said it was the first time he had appeared at a meeting of the committee since the campaign of 1904. He chatted a few minutes with Kelley Pool and departed.

While the committee was in session numerous candidates and other Democrats who were not candidates were admitted.

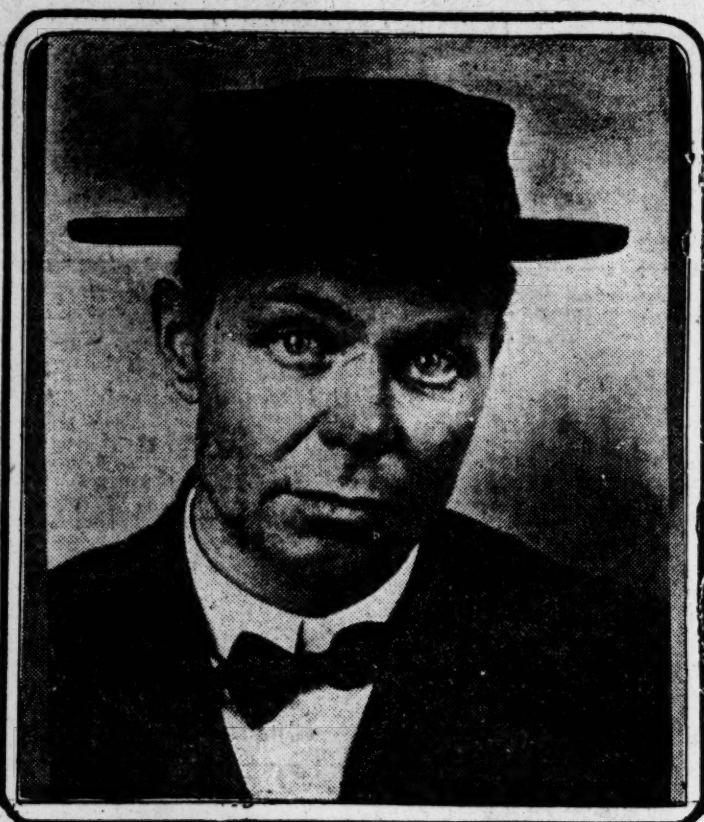

Henry N. Cary, interested in the campaign of David R. Francis, and Attorney Jack Harvey of Kansas City, law partner of James A. Reed, were busy before the committee meeting in behalf of their respective candidates for United States senator.

The meeting was to develop a plan of campaign and select an executive committee. Joseph B. Shannon, the newly elected chairman of the committee, presided at the meeting.

One of the matters discussed was the granting of financial assistance to the movement to organize the students of Missouri colleges into Democratic clubs.

Robert Stuart of Springfield presented the matter to the committee. Stuart has already formed clubs in Drury, Park and William Jewell colleges and Washington University. The clubs are affiliated with the National League of Democratic College Clubs.

CONTRACTOR WHOSE AUTOMOBILE KILLED WOMAN ON GRAND AVENUE

GEORGE H. BRUEGGEEMANN.

BANK WILL ERECT BUILDING

North St. Louis Savings Trust Co. Closes a Lease.

The North St. Louis Savings Trust Co., through Mr. Greulich, has closed a lease for a second three-story brick building with stone and terra cotta trimmings, to be erected on the southeast corner of Grand avenue and Hebert street, opposite the building of the trust company.

The building will adjoin Pauley's present building. The first floor will be used as an annex to the drug store in which several new departments will be installed. The second and third floors, which will be arranged for office purposes, have been leased for a long term. The venture is the result of a demand for offices and quarters near Grand avenue and Hebert street, which corner is developing into one of the most enterprising centers of North St. Louis. The site and improvements when completed will represent an investment of $30,000.

MOTORIST, NOTED FOR HIS CAUTION, KILLS A WOMAN

G. H. Brueggemann, Distressed by Accident, Will Not Drive Car Again.

HE NEVER SPEEDED

Contractor's Pace of 15 Miles an Hour Made Chauffeurs Jibe.

The extreme caution which made George H. Brueggemann, a contractor, 5078A Delmar boulevard, known as the most careful automobile driver in St. Louis availed him nothing. Although he held joy-riders in horror, never drove his machine faster than 15 miles an hour and thereby drew upon himself the gibes of more daring motorists, he ran down and killed Mrs. Fannie Artmann, 67 years old, in front of the Magnolia Avenue Police Station at 9 p. m. Thursday.

In his distress, Brueggemann said Friday that he would never operate an automobile again, but would return to the horse and buggy which he drove for 20 years without an accident. As a proof of his carefulness, he says that his expenses for the machine during the year he has owned it averaged only 50 cents a day.

Brueggemann was driving north on the east side of Grand avenue, with his wife and two children, Clifford, 8 years old, and Kenneth, 3. Next door to the police station, a big mortar box and a heap of debris lay at the curb. Mrs. Artmann stepped from behind the box and the machine struck her, Brueggemann says, the moment he saw her. She died three hours later of a fractured skull at the City Hospital.

She Has Premonition.

Her grandson, Louis Spanholtz, passed the station on a street car an hour later and heard a passenger re-

LAYS SIEGE AT CLAYTON COURT TO OBTAIN WIFE

Christopher Columbus Williams of Dexter, Mo., Listens to Swish of Every Skirt and Declares He Will Not Go Home Single.

Like Patience on a monument, Christopher Columbus Williams has taken a firm stand in the Clayton Courthouse to await the coming of a woman who will coyly whisper "yes" when he asks her to marry him.

Each day he makes the journey from St. Louis to the county seat and takes a position where he can observe every woman who enters the office of Justice Werremeyer. When he hears the swish of a petticoat his heart goes pit-a-pat, but thus far his fond hopes have not been realized.

Christopher has been told that he looks like Mark Twain looked when he was a pilot on the Mississippi. He believes it and is proud of the resemblance.

All that he wants is just one plain wife. He said so in a letter to Maryling Justice Werremeyer, who before starting on a vacation wrote to eight women in Williams' behalf. Some of these have answered the letter, but Williams bars them all because he will not accept the matrimonial advances of any woman who has children.

"I have three small boys myself and I know that they will be enough for any woman to take care of. My home is in Dexter, Mo. I have a good home of my own there and I can see a month in the lumber business. I think that is sufficient to support a wife. My first wife and I got along on it fine."

"I have been in St. Louis a week and I am not going home until I find a wife. I want to see one woman in South St. Louis, but I did not think she was serious enough to make a good wife."

When Williams arrived at Clayton Friday he found awaiting him two letters. One was signed Mrs. C. Stone, 3829 Delmar boulevard, and the other Mrs. Witherspoon, 3119 Lamp avenue. Both asked him to call on them at their homes.

Williams is 41 years old, 5 feet 2 inches tall and weighs 115 pounds. He has blue eyes and dark hair and mustache. He says that he smokes occasionally, but has no other bad habits.

mark that an old woman had been struck by an automobile near the Liederkreis Club. As Mrs. Artmann was an employee at the club, he left the car and ran into the home of his mother, Mrs. Mary Spanholtz, 3814A Botanical avenue, where Mrs. Artmann lived.

"Is grandmother here?" he asked.

"No," said Mrs. Spanholtz.

"Then she has been killed by an automobile," the youth cried. His mother and he hastened to the City Hospital and found Mrs. Artmann dying.

Lieut. McMullen, who saw the accident, arrested Brueggemann, but he was released a few minutes later on a common law bond. After Mrs. Artmann's death he was rearrested at his home and is held at the Central District holdover for the coroner.

MOTHER GOES AWAY; GIRL IS DYING OF GRIEF

Father's Fine Stayed by Court So He Can Be With Child.

The father of Anna Hainz, 14 years old, of 3915 Bay street, believes she is dying from grief because of the continued absence of her mother, Mrs. Sadie Hainz. Judge Kleiber of Wyoming Street Police Court stayed a fine of $10 against the father, Frederick Hainz, to permit him to return to the girl's bedside. He was found guilty of disturbing the peace of his wife in attempting to compel her to return, after an absence of three weeks.

"I was told that Anna would die if my wife didn't return home," Hainz testified. "I found her at 426 East Davis street and she consented to return with me for a few hours. She started out to a party yesterday afternoon, and I couldn't stand it any longer. It was her place to stay at home. Instead she told me to get a trained nurse."

"And it was her place to stay at home," Judge Kleiber said. Then, directing his words to Mrs. Hainz, who made the complaint against the husband, he said: "I wish a charge had been brought against you. It would not end in the manner I have treated your husband."

The Hainzes departed together.

SKINKER AWARDED DAMAGES FOR USE OF LAND BY WORLD'S FAIR

David R. Francis and W. H. Thompson Defendants; Verdict is for $2401.

A judgment of $2401 was awarded Thomas K. Skinker Friday by Judge Homer as damages for the failure of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition Co. to restore the Skinker tract after its occupation during the World's Fair. David R. Francis and the W. H. Thompson estate were named as co-defendants.

Skinker alleged that he was not paid the $30 a day promised him for the use of the 80-acre tract for every day it was occupied after the close of the fair. The ground was encumbered with pilings and heaps of debris, he said. His suit was for $30,000 damages.

Women's Secrets

There is one man in the United States who has perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. These secrets are not secrets of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr. R. V. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help. That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that ninety-eight per cent. of all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been absolutely and altogether cured. Such a record would be remarkable if the cases treated were numbered by hundreds only. But when that record applies to the treatment of more than half-a-million women, in a practice of over 40 years, it is phenomenal, and entitles Dr. Pierce to the gratitude accorded him by women, as the first specialist in the treatment of women's diseases.

Every sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, absolutely without charge. All replies are mailed, sealed in perfectly plain envelopes, without any printing or advertising whatever, upon them. Write without fear as without fee, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.

PROMOTING A GREAT CAUSE.

The utilization of the old quarantine hospital for indigent tuberculosis patients is a gain for both economy and charity. Nothing in the way of hospital activity can contribute more to the general welfare than public effort to care for and cure tuberculosis. Such astonishing progress in the treatment of this affliction has been made through educative effort that a city which neglects any opportunity to aid the cause is derelict in the discharge of its obligation to safeguard health and aid the unfortunate.

By devoting this old hospital to tubercular patients the city claims it to be usefulness and makes a clear saving of $15,000 a year, the expense of maintaining it empty. But most of all it is important that the city show the way and demonstrate the methods of treating the disease to the end that people may learn to guard against it and to combat its approach. The ultimate elimination of the dread plague is certain, but that eventuality will be hastened by activity.

The practical abandonment of a hospital built for smallpox patients is a fine attestation of the progress resulting from scientific effort. Light, air, ventilation and diet have done as much toward stamping out smallpox as vaccination. The way to freedom from tuberculosis lies along the same path.

When it comes to what Boston calls "enumerating your adolescent pullets," picking Standard-Walker I. Smith to succeed James A. Tawney as head of the Appropriations Committee is the limit. Champ Clark will never, never appoint him.

BRYAN'S BOLT.

Bryan has made public declaration that he will not support the Democratic nominee, Mayor Dahlman, for Governor in the Nebraska campaign. The reason given is the position taken by the party and the candidate in dealing with the liquor question. Bryan holds to his latest "paramount issue" and abandons his party.

This action is the more significant because the Nebraska platform is in line with the long-established Democratic principle of local self-government. On that score Mr. Dahlman is quite justified in his reply to Bryan: "The position I take on the liquor question is purely Democratic and follows the spirit of Democracy, which stands at all times for personal liberty and self-government."

It will be seen that Bryan bolts not only the Nebraska candidate and platform, but the long-settled principle of the party itself. He who has so often and so loudly denounced as traitors to Democracy those who bolted the ticket in times past, now follows their example. It is a case where curses will come home to roost. What he said about others will recoil upon his own head. His declaration may be taken as a farewell to Democracy. He leaves his old companions with maledictions instead of blessings, but perhaps his departure will prove a blessing after all.

Speaker Cannon says the Payne-Aldrich law needs no defense. And he might have added it is getting none.

THE MEASURE OF CITIES.

President Taft's address at Cincinnati contains a passage that merits much more consideration than it is likely to receive. Speaking of the showing made by the city in the recent census, he said:

"Your music, your art, your educational system and the character of your people give you a distinct type, which, in comparison with other communities, does not depend for its excellence upon the percentage of increase in your population or those statistics of material growth which the new and excessively growing city hugs to its bosom. There are things in this world besides numbers. There are besides money, and some of these things can only be obtained by a quiet growth that takes time to give."

We are so accustomed to measure cities solely by statistics of population and of business that the new method of measurement proposed by the President for Cincinnati is apt to provoke a smile. Yet it should not be so. We do not count the glory of Athens and of Jerusalem and of Rome in the ancient world by the number of their inhabitants. Neither do we so appraise today the value to the world of Florence, or Munich, or Geneva, or Brussels, or London. Why then should the measurement of American cities exclude all historic, artistic, literary and social values?

One of our defects as a people is that of either ignoring or underrating all wealth except that which can be converted into money or counted at the polls. By a paradox easily understood, this exclusive devotion to money reacts upon itself and causes us to lose money. Thousands of Americans go abroad in search of culture when half the energy and half the money expended in such tours would produce in American cities a local culture and charm not inferior to anything in Europe.

DISCHARGING CIVIC DUTY.

Every St. Louis voter is aroused. The heavy registration proclaims that fact. The handicap of a single day in which to record the names of over 60,000 men was overcome and the gratifying news is that approximately 160,000 men are eligible to vote. It is the largest registration in the city's history. This alone bespeaks the determination of the people to protect the city from the ruthless rule of outsiders. It says plainly that St. Louis is organized for defense.

The registering of names is, however, only a first step. Election is still six weeks away. In that time there is much work to do. To arrive at a mental decision as to the respective merits of rival candidates or rival parties is a task involving less study, less discrimination and a less refined knowledge of conditions than to vote intelligently on the 11 constitutional amendments to the State Constitution. But no voter will discharge his duty who does not examine and come to a fair conclusion as to the merits of these amendments.

In importance and in interest the prohibitory amendment will, of course, outrank all the others. In St. Louis particularly it is vital. In suggesting that every voter, who qualified for exercising the suffrage that he might record his views in this respect, take heed of the tremendous consequences that would follow its success, the Post-Dispatch urges no neglect of the other amendments or the other matters for decision. But it is patent that no St. Louisan will do his duty if he does not conduct an individual campaign among his friends for the defeat of this threatening revolt against law, order, decency, good morals and industrial progress. If there is realization of the prediction that the rural sections will return a majority in favor of the amendment, St. Louis must save itself by rolling up an unfavorable majority to offset that from the State. It is an intolerable thought that the personal liberties and business activities of the people of this city should be subject to outside control. Vote against prohibition. Work against it.

Gaynor is a liar, says Hearst, thus adding plagiarism to his other sins.

A HOUSEKEEPER'S TROUBLES.

At the Domestic Science and Pure Food Exhibition, that opened in New York last Saturday, a number of samples of adulterated foods, exhibited as warnings, were mistaken for free lunch exhibits and eaten by visitors while the exhibiting scientists were temporarily absent.

The adulterated samples were not harmful to health in any way, so no great evil was caused by the mistake, but the fact that the visiting housewives could not distinguish them from model foodstuffs shows how cleverly the adulterations had been made. In one place where a lot of gum arabic, colored with coal-tar dye and artificially flavored, had been displayed to show how orange peel can be imitated, every morsel was taken and eaten before the professor in charge of the pure food laboratory knew what was going on.

It appears there is hardly any kind of preserves, jams, jellies, pickles, coffee, tea, cocoa, syrup or sauce that is not so well counterfeited by the rascals of the trade that the fraud cannot be detected except by chemical analysis. Evidently to domestic economy there must now be added domestic science, and in the near future as much learning will be required to conduct a household as to run a university.

Canada is not enthusiastic for reciprocity, but of course, has no objection to its use for campaign purposes.

SAVING THE NORTH DAKOTA.

When it was reported to Capt. Gleaves of the battleship North Dakota that fuel oil had caught fire in room No. 3, that three men were in the room fighting the fire, but that the flames were making headway, he gave the order: "Close the exits and flood the room."

Though the order saved the ship and its crew by the sacrifice of three lives, and though it has been approved by those who speak with authority on such subjects, it has been widely discussed and in some quarters keenly debated. A review of the issue raised by the discussion will be published in the Magazine Section of the Post-Dispatch next Sunday, together with a statement of the legal aspects of the question by ex-Gov. Charles P. Johnson.

Hardly any responsibility imposed upon a commander can be severer than that Capt. Gleaves had to face in this case, and there was no time to reflect upon it. The flames were already dangerously near the powder magazine. Immediate action was imperative.

An Illinois millionaire left his grandson $1,500,000 on condition that he earn a salary of not less than $75 a month until he is 25 years old. It is a well-meant provision, but any money lender would pay the young man that salary twice over just to play golf, provided the young man makes a proper note payable a few years later.

The Secretary of the National Probation League has taken all the locks off the doors of his house and says if a burglar comes he will give him "the hand of fellowship" and help him to get better employment; from which we infer that the Secretary keeps his money downtown in a safe deposit.

Mr. Taft's recipe for preventing pork-barrel legislation is to approve such as is offered and threaten a veto if Congress does it again.

Heaven only knows how many more last ditch "Dear Maria" has up her sleeve.

Mr. Francis is strong for an income tax, and one, we hope, that can't be dodged.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Unflushed Streets.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Is it "these majesties" to suggest that a very excellent public officer can make a mistake? If not, might it not be well to hint to our excellent Street Commissioner that his delay in straightening out the street flushing plant is causing our people no end of loss and discomfort.

When the Rattien Street Cleaning Co. imbroglio so riled up Mr. Travilla as to cause him to momentarily perform the surgical operation known as "cutting off the nose to spite the face," he tried to feel that he hadn't made a blunder, but it would take an optimist indeed to justify the supine flunk that allows the condition to continue so unreasonably long. Many moons have waxed and waned and still the antiquated method of street cleaning is in vogue, and we hear no whisper of a return to the cleanliness of "Spotless Town."

A SUFFERING BUSINESS MAN.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
In a well-written editorial on the 20th of September issue of your paper it is said: "The Missouri delegation (in the next Congress) is placed at 15 Democrats and one Republican." The one Republican is, of course, Richard Bartholdt of the Tenth District. And in the same paper, in an article copied from the New York Sun, it is said: "Missouri doesn't know enough to insure."

Let us look at these two propositions for a moment. In tariff matters the congressman was with Aldrich, Payne & Co., and he was always with Cannon on every proposition. Local affairs became lonesome by reason of Mr. Bartholdt's absence in Europe, and his advocacy of the issues (peace matters) in higher statesmanship. Mr. Bartholdt takes a conservative position on the liquor question. The brewers and their customers who vote as "they drink and not as they think" will not stand pat for any conservatism. The Socialists of that district are striving with might and main to "recall" Mr. B. The insurgents in that district not only dare to "insure," but are in open revolt and point to a neglect in local affairs for 16 years. Notwithstanding the New York Sun, or the great majority hitherto declared for Bartholdt, the Tenth Congressional District is in revolt, and marks my words the Republic in that district are going to vote this fall the way they "think," and Bartholdt will fall over the cliff so rapidly that when falling he will not have time to pluck a flower on his way.

ELLIOTT JR.

A Sight Too Common.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Has the Humane Society gone out of business? I saw a horse drawing a wagon down town the other day all galloped up, and the crows would shed tears to look upon that wreck of bones. Is it possible that a man can be human and treat an animal in that way?

ONE OF YOUR PATRONS.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Help the Crippled and Blind.
I want to ask the people through your paper that whenever they see a cripple in need of help, don't refuse. Stop a minute, people; think how these poor cripples are deprived of their limbs and how lucky we are to have ours. I have passed them by before, but whenever I did my conscience hurt me, and from now on, with God's consent, I am never going to refuse. This includes the blind also.
ROBERT BROWN.

An Obnoxious Sink Hole.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Near the intersection of Marquette and Jameson avenues, Lindenwood, a sink hole, which used to be harmless, has been made very obnoxious and offensive because the owner of a house has permitted the tenants to drain everything, including toilet water, into it. The sink hole is a nuisance, and the germ-laden water is gradually spreading all over the neighborhood. Several complaints have been made to the Health Department, but without effect. A policeman has even been sent to look upon the sink hole, but he has not been able to do anything. Persons are getting sick and we ask you to publish this so that the matter may receive attention.
RESIDENTS.

Looking Beneath the Surface.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I wish to thank you, in the name of the women of the theatrical profession, for your editorial headed, "Funny but Barbarous." If more men would stop to think beneath the surface as the writer of this editorial did, the women in our midst would be the respect that is their due. It is a mighty brave battle the most of the time I was away from my mother; so I know, yet, as you say, the world laughs and thinks it funny. If it was some of their daughters wouldn't it be a huge joke? Many men think being on the stage, we are not respectable, and their money can do anything, especially at such times.
AN ACTRESS IN ST. LOUIS THIS WEEK.

Our Zoological Garden.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I have been very much interested in the articles published in your paper lately about our zoological garden, and desire to express my opinion in regard to this matter.
I am an artist and am also greatly attached to the study of animals. I have traveled from coast to coast in the interest of my profession and have, at the same time, visited all the zoological gardens that I possibly could. Those in New York, Cincinnati and Chicago are exceptionally fine, and I see no reason why St. Louis should not have something at least somewhat like those cities have.

I would therefore like to suggest that Mr. Cortland Harris and the Million Population Club confer with some scientific man such as Prof. F. J. Abbott of the Washington University, or Prof. Frank Schwarz of 1909 Lafayette avenue, and get some idea of what ought to be done and how it ought to be done in order to obtain the proper results. Prof. Schwarz is a naturalist as well as a scientist and is known in all the large cities. I have heard superintendents of zoological gardens in other cities say that they write to Prof. Schwarz when they want some authoritative information. What I have just stated shows that the gentleman is public spirited, and I think that it will be of great value to the public in general if those in charge of the zoo movement will get the views of a competent person before advancing too far.

A VETERAN.

From the Atchison County (Mo.) Mail.
Poets and bards sing the praises of our war veterans and the graves of those departed are strewn with flowers, but what of Fritz Bergman's faithful old mule, a veteran of the Civil War? The sad fact is that this mule (the oldest on record) died on the 9th inst. in his fifty-first year. He was 50 years old last June and was one of the mules Col. P. A. Thompson used in the Civil War. His mate, 47 years old, died one year ago last fall, leaving this poor old fellow to survive on gumbo grass, one and one-half miles northeast of St. Peter's German Lutheran Church. He was undoubtedly the oldest mule on record, and deserved a grand funeral. However, in years past The Mail has noted the age of mules close to that of this war veteran. Uncle Jesse Underwood, deceased, drove a team of mules for many years that died, we believe, near the age of 35 years, and Mr. McCollister, near Tarkio, owned a team of mules that were foaled, respectively, at the time of their death, 46 and 47 years before, on the Wash. Fraisher farm, now owned by Dick Harms.

AN EXCELLENT COMMISSION.

From Harper's Weekly.
Two economists, two lawyers and a banker that seems a sensible composition for the national commission on the stock and bond issues of common carriers engaged in interstate commerce. When, moreover, it is known that the two economists, President Hadley of Yale and Professor Meyer of Wisconsin, have both specialized on railroads and made themselves authorities in that field; that the two lawyers, Mr. Frederick N. Judson, of St. Louis, and Mr. Walter L. Fisher, of Chicago, have both distinguished themselves in railway litigation; and that the banker, Mr. Frederick C. Schuchman, also a student of economics, one feels that President Taft's selection is pretty nearly ideal.

Ohio and Virginia.

From the Pittsburg Post.
Some wiseacre foresees a formidable rival for Gov. Harmon in Woodrow Wilson for the presidency. Well, the Ohio streak which is so indispensable would yet be present. Mr. Wilson's father was an eminent Southern Presbyterian, and born in Steubenville, O. The distinguished son was born in Virginia. From a presidential viewpoint this is an accelerating combination of birthplaces. Most presidents not born in the Old Dominion were born in Ohio.

WOODSMAN, SAY!

I.
Woodman, what of the living forest—
Does it grow old?
Are the leaves of the sugar maples
Turning gold?
Does the sweet mellowness of Autumn
Dwell in the forest keeps today,
And is there a bell somewhere soft-tolling—
Woodman, say!

WOODSMAN, what of the ancient forest—

Does it grow chill?
Are the sweet singing birds of Summer
Sad and still?
Is the bright beauty of the flowers
Desolate and passed away,
And is there a bell somewhere soft-tolling—
Woodman, say!

WOODSMAN, what of the dear old forest—

Does it grow hoar?
Is the great glory soon to perish
Loved the more?
Are the far reaches through the timber
Turning to goosamer and gray,
And is there a bell somewhere soft-tolling—
Woodman, say!

Dear Sir: I have you was puttin up a new sawmill, so I thought I would drop a line to see if you wanted a shingle sawyer. I guess I can saw as many shingles as the next man. I have been sawing for four years. If you want me please let me know and when you will start, I shall come as soon as you want me. Write soon and let me know what you think about it. PETER LAWITSEN, Millinocket, Me. care Crockett Camp.

II.

Mr. Peter Lawitsen, Millinocket, Me.
Dear Sir: Referring to yours of the 1st inst., would say that we are not in need of a shingle sawyer at this time. Yours very truly,
KATHARIN PULP AND PAPER CO., Dict. H. R.

III.

Dear Sir: You wrote me a letter but she was so short I don't know what to say. You do not say if you wanted a shingle sawyer or not and when you was going to start. I guess you do not know anything about a shingle mill and I guess you do not know how hard it is to get a good shingle sawyer. As you answer me so short you can go flying plump to Hell you great big fool.
Answer this if you like to.

FOOD VALUE OF MILK

By Caroline L. Hunt.

Expert in Nutrition, Office of the United States Department of Agriculture, Experiment Stations.

It is a commonplace saying that milk, or to be more specific, cow's milk, is a perfect food. This may be taken to mean that it contains first materials which children need for growth; second, materials which young and old alike need for the repair of their bodily machinery; and, third, materials which both need for fuel, i. e., to provide them with heat and with energy necessary for work. It should not be understood, however, to mean that it has these ingredients in such proportions that it can serve satisfactorily as an exclusive food for a grown person or even a child. Though it is the best substitute for mother's milk, it must be "modified" more or less before it can be used even for infant feeding with good results.

It is likewise a commonplace saying that milk is a cheap as well as a nutritious food. Just at present with prices of all kinds of foods rapidly changing it is not so easy as it once was to make the comparisons that are necessary to show which particular foods are really cheap, but while the prices of food materials vary the composition of most of them remains unchanged, and it is always possible to compare their nutritive values. A quart of milk supplies practically as much of both protein and energy as three-quarters of a pound of beef of average composition or eight average eggs, and can generally be bought for less money. In case milk is 8 cents a quart, beef 20 cents a pound, and eggs 24 cents a dozen, 10 cents spent for milk will buy a little more protein and much more energy than 10 cents spent for beef or 10 cents spent for eggs. Thus, while other animal foods than milk (milk, cheese and butter) are desirable to give variety to the diet it may be assumed that milk may be used as an economical substitute for any one of them.

Of the vegetable foods, many (flour, for example) are found to be much cheaper than milk when both price and nutritive value are taken into consideration, and as a matter of fact they always form the greater part of the bulk of human food; but of the animal foods which are usually combined with the vegetable foods, milk is one of the cheapest. In spite of the fact that milk is recognized as a nutritious and a cheap food, there seems to be a general tendency to think of it not as a possible substitute for other more expensive foods, but rather as an addition to the bill of fare. To illustrate, milk is frequently used as a beverage without the reduction of the amount of meat or other protein foods served. From the point of view of the need of the body this may be considered extravagant and the serving of a glass of milk or of a bowlful of soup or of such desserts as custards and baked milk, or the use of generous quantities of milk or white sauce on vegetables offers an opportunity to cut down the allowance of meats and eggs.

The Composition of Milk.

THE tendency to think of milk as a beverage rather than as an important source of food comes partly, no doubt, from the fact that it is liquid rather than a solid and that most liquid foods, such as clear soup, coffee, and tea, contain very little that feeds the body. It is natural, therefore, to associate milk with these rather than with the really nourishing food materials. In order to overcome this tendency it is well to study the solid products of milk as they are obtained by various processes familiar in the dairy and in the kitchen as well as in the laboratory. Before doing this it may be helpful to get an idea of the classes into which the solids contained in milk are divided. These are: (1) Proteids, (2) fats, (3) sugar, (4) mineral matter. The fat and sugar serve as fuel, and the mineral matter is chiefly valuable for the making of bone and teeth and other physiological purposes. The proteids serve as fuel like the fats and sugar, but they are used also to make and to repair the muscular tissues of the body. This double usefulness indicates why proteids are so often referred to as the most important part of milk.

Fat constitutes about four per cent of the weight of milk. All are familiar with the common process of butter making by which the greater part of the fat is separated from the other ingredients. The liquid which remains and which is called buttermilk contains the rest of the nutrients of the milk except the small portions which cling to the curd. On examining buttermilk after it has become a little sour, it may be seen that it contains a white solid which in the process of churning has been divided into very small particles. This solid is casein, the chief proteid of the milk.

The familiar process of the souring of milk also helps to an understanding of its composition. When this takes place the casein and most of the fat separate from the whey and form what is known as the curd. The whey, however, contains a small amount of curd completely for the purpose of making cottage cheese, much of the fat is usually carried off with the whey. This is particularly true if the curd is strained while warm. It may therefore be in place here to suggest that after sour milk has been scalded for the purpose of making cottage cheese, it will be still thoroughly before straining. Through very common processes, those of butter and making, one may become familiar with the milk known as casein and with the fat of milk. But the clear whey which may be separated from the curd also has important solids in it and with these one seldom has a chance to become acquainted. The following simple experiment may be carried out with the ordinary dishes in use in the kitchen:

Separating Its Constituents.

SEPARATE the portion of whey from the curd of sour milk, and, if necessary, necessary to get it perfectly clear, strain through a piece of fine cloth without previously heating. Examine to see that there are no solid particles in it. Divide into two parts. Heat one part to the boiling point, and when cool pour into a glass, examine, and compare with the unheated portion. The part that has been heated will be seen to be full of small particles of white solid which sink to the bottom of the liquid. This is the casein, the chief proteid of the milk, and though in very much smaller amount than the casein, it resembles the albumen of the white of an egg. It differs from the casein in not curdling when the milk sours and in remaining in solution in the whey. Furthermore, it does not form curd in the stomach. This experiment is particularly important to those who wish to understand milk in its relation to the feeding of babies. The proteid which by the process of heating is shown to be present in the whey is the chief proteid of human milk, while in cows' milk, as has been said, it is found in very much smaller amount than the curdling proteid. Cows' milk, therefore, can never be a perfect equivalent for human milk in infant feeding, even if diluted and modified, though it is the best available substitute for it. It is easy to understand that a baby may be able to digest a proteid which remains dissolved in the whey more easily than one which curdles soon after reaching the stomach.

To continue the experiment with milk, strain the whey which has been heated and again get it perfectly clear. Pour this into a double boiler over water and heat until it is dry. There will be left a very sugary mass. Place some of this in an old spoon or on a piece of tin or sheet iron and burn. Notice the characteristic odor of charred sugar. Milk contains five per cent of sugar. This sugar is not exactly like the sugar used on the table. It is much less sweet and physiologists and chemists find that it acts differently from ordinary sugar during the process of digestion. For this reason the sugar used in preparing a baby's food should never be granulated sugar, but milk sugar, which can be bought at the drugist's.

If it is possible to get the spoon in which the sugar is heated sufficiently hot to burn the sugar completely, it will be discovered that there remains behind a small portion of white powder, which the most intense heat does not consume. This is the mineral matter of the milk. It constitutes about seven-tenths of one per cent of its weight, and it is more abundant in comparison with other nutrients than in any other common food. It is easy, of course, to see why this material which builds the bone should be in the food primarily designed for the use of young animals.

Thus by simple and interesting processes, fat, casein, albumen, sugar, and minerals may be separated and milk may be shown to be a mixture of many valuable solids either suspended or dissolved in water. Such experimenting shows, too, why it is that no other liquid is regarded as a true substitute for milk in the feeding of young children. No attempt will be made in this bulletin to give exact directions for the modification of milk for feeding babies, because this varies with individual cases and is a matter which should be regulated by the physician or other person with expert knowledge. Many valuable books give such directions for children of various ages and such books may prove very helpful to the mother and the nurse. A careful consideration, however, of the facts that have been given here about the different solids in milk should make it possible for a person to follow the directions for modifying milk more intelligently and to understand better the reasons for the varying proportions given in the formulas for infant feeding.

Notes of Style From Paris

THE main impression I got from black, and blue of a darker, richer shade is now mixed with veiled orange chiffon or embroidered with those indescribable orange tones seen in so many Western designs. The pattern is high and the sleeves cut without seams. Nothing is left unveiled except plain Liberty or velvet, and then only when it forms the deep hem of an under-robe. Evening frocks are all made with trains in black, with a touch of gold in the pearl embroidery. Blue, bright blue, is still to be worn with

School Exercise Injurious

THAT helpless children in the public schools of the country have for years been compelled to undergo systems of gymnastics suited only for hardy adults and that many have been thereby injured for life is an amazing fact brought out by Rhea Childe Dorr in Hampton's Magazine.

"Ever since gymnastics and athletics were admitted into the schools," says Mrs. Dorr, "the educators and the directors of physical training have discussed the respective merits of the Swedish system, the German system and half a dozen other systems, devoting much of their research to inanimate things instead of to the human child. 'System' has been the breath of life of the educational machine, under the searchlight of school hygiene is rapidly falling into disrepute.

"In Boston they used to be devoted to the Swedish system of gymnastics. Several generations of children were put rigidly through its routine before Dr. Harrington, director of the Bureau of School Hygiene, announced that the Swedish system, admirably adapted to adults, was too heavy a physical and mental drain on children. Faulty posture, deformed pelvises, curved spines, flat feet, broken arches of the feet were directly due to the gymnastic exercises upon the helpless children in the public schools of Boston.

The Children's Institute in connection with Clark University, Worcester, Mass., has at the head of its department of child hygiene Prof. William H. Burnham, who has made some extraordinary studies in the hygiene of physical training. To be more exact, Prof. Burnham's studies have been concerned chiefly with physical education.

"This being true," concludes Mrs. Dorr, "we have not much difficulty in agreeing with Dr. Burnham that the exercise of children and youths should be adapted to all, unless the child is dumbbell and Indian club be expected. They should play, and play, if possible, out of doors.

"A boy of 16 running 10 miles draws heavily on the muscles of his legs and the resisting power of his heart and lungs. His organs not directly concerned in the effort of running retain their store of energy. A boy of 12 running the same race draws on his single reservoir of energy, and he finishes the race in a state of toxic fatigue.

"The toxin or poison of fatigue is a real poison, quite as real and every bit as dangerous as the toxin of diphtheria or smallpox. It has been tested in the laboratory and studied in the hospital. Injected into the veins of small animals the poison kills. Formed in the human system, it may permanently weaken and debilitate.

The safest and surest way to kill rats, mice and other vermin is to get from your drugist a package of the guaranteed exterminator, Stearns' Electric Rat and Roach Paste. Ready for use; better than traps, for it drives rats and mice out of the house to die. Money back if it fails. 2-oz. box 25c; 16-oz. box $1.00. WATERING WATER-LESS PLANTS.

ACCORDING to an ingenious Scotch device, house plants can be kept well watered during a week's absence of the housekeeper. Set a bowl of water well above the plant to be watered by means of a box or a pile of books. Twist several strands of darning wool together or braid them to form a long wick and soak them in water. If one end of the wick reaches the bottom of the bowl and the other hangs over the plants a steady drip will continue until the bowl is emptied.

Beautiful English Wedding Gowns

HERE is a sketch of a bridal gown worn by Lady Manning, a recent English bride, her going-away gown and her mother's gown. The bridal robe was of ivory, charmeuse satin draped with some magnificent old Brussels lace which once belonged to Marie Antoinette.

Eat and Get Thin

This is turning an old phrase face about by modern methods of reducing fat have made this revision possible. If you are overfat and also averse to physical exertion and likewise fond of the table and still want to see your excess flesh several pounds, do this: Go to your drugist (or write the Marmola Co., 193 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich.) and give him (or send them) 18 cents. For this modest amount of money the drugist will put you in the way of satisfying your ambition for a nice, trim, slim figure. He will hand you a large case of Marmola Prescription Tablets (compounded in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription), one of which you must take after each meal and at bedtime until it begins to lose weight. The rate of 12 to 16 ounces a day. That is all. Just go on eating what you like, leave exercising to the athletes, but take your little tablet faithfully and without a doubt that fleshy flesh will quickly take unto itself wings, leaving behind it your natural self, neatly clothed in firm flesh and trim muscles.—A.D.K.

The lace was artistically arranged on the bodice over soft white tulle, and the transparent chemise was finished round the neck with pearls, tulle again appearing on the tucked tulle sleeves and folded waistband. The skirt, draped in a very graceful fold, had lace arranged across the front of it, and was caught at the left side by a pearl ornament, and a tulle veil surmounted the coronal of white heather and real orange blossom which lay lightly upon her hair. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and white heather mounted with real Brussels lace, which was the gift of the bridegroom. The mother was gowned in old gold satin veiled in gray chiffon and trimmed with oxidized and gold embroidery, and hat to match. Lady Manning's traveling dress was of "ardoise" colored cashmere de sole, the underdress being trimmed with soutache to match and entirely veiled in chiffon. At the waist was an oxidized and gold ornament, and her hat to match the dress was trimmed with a large white wing.

The thing that worries some about heaven is that there will be no opportunity for distinction by means of millinery.—Chicago Tribune.

Honesty Is the Worst Policy in Love Says the Widow

Written for the Post-Dispatch By HELEN ROWLAND

"I F two people who are in love only could be perfectly honest with one another!" sighed the Widow, toying with her teacup and regarding the Bachelor thoughtfully across the rose-hued light of the table. "What?" cried the Bachelor, in shocked alarm. "Take those two over there, for instance," explained the Widow, indicating a youthful pair across the tearoom who were gazing at one another with "the look that lies in lovers' eyes—and lies, and lies, and lies." "Now if they would only begin by being perfectly frank!" "And end by being perfect enemies!" scoffed the Bachelor cynically.

"Nonsense!" retorted the Widow. "It's those little white lies they're telling one another this minute that cause the first big black clouds after the honeymoon. If they would start out by bravely telling one another the plain, honest truth, there would always be perfect faith and trust between them."

"There would always be a row between them," corrected the Bachelor, "or a chilliness that would make an Arctic expedition seem like a Florida spring by contrast. Just fancy a chap saying exactly what he thought to a woman!" And the Bachelor chuckled.

"Do people in love think such dreadful things about one another?" exclaimed the Widow in mock surprise. "Not dreadful, but—rather 'unspeakable' things," returned the Bachelor. "For instance, if I should be 'perfectly honest' with you—er—what would I say?"

"That's just it!" cried the Widow, leaning forward with enticing eagerness. "What WOULD you say?" "Well," the Bachelor hesitated a moment and then plunged in. "I'd say, 'Lovely lady, you are the most charming and delightful woman I have ever met; in fact, you are the first woman I have thought would 'do'.'"

"Mr. Travers!" "But I sometimes shudder, right in the midst of proposing to you, at the thought of your knowledge of my sex."

"Why—really?" "And the tilt of your nose sometimes frightens me!" "What?"

"And there are moments when your argumentative powers and your perfect flow of conversation get on my nerves!" "Go on!" cried the Widow tragically.

"And when I wonder if I shall be able to afford to dress you in the style to which you are accustomed, and how I would explain things to you if I happened to stay out late, and if you would grow fat, and—"

"Stop!" cried the Widow, putting her hands over her ears, "I won't listen to another word!" "I'm only being 'perfectly honest,'" pleaded the Bachelor with an injured air. "And all this time," exclaimed the Widow bitterly, "I've thought you really loved me!" "So I do!" remonstrated the Bachelor. "But just because two people love—er—like one another is no reason why they should be stone-blind of the process, however, why they ought to keep up a few illusions and spare each other all the brutal truths they can. Being perfectly frank is like pulling the curtains of the mind."

all the way up and letting the light shine on all its defects and dusty corners."

"Instead of keeping the blinds down and turning on the rose-colored lights!" added the Widow, thoughtfully. "And heaven knows the rose-colored lights go out soon enough after marriage!" "Amen!" exclaimed the Bachelor. "But, just for the sake of euphony, suppose you should be perfectly honest with me, what would you say?" "The Widow leaned thoughtfully on her elbow.

"I'd say," she mused, "that you were an awfully nice, NICE man; in fact, the nicest man I know, but that I DO deplore your taste in neckties, and that I WISH you wouldn't smoke that dreadful pipe of yours, and that your pronunciation sometimes gets on my nerves, and your funny little ways—but, oh, well, I could change all that if I married you!" she added confidently.

"That's what they all think!" groaned the Bachelor. "They never tell you the truth until they have you tied to the mast, and then they fling up the shades and turn off the rose-colored lights!"

"What?" "And become perfectly honest with one another!" explained the Bachelor. "Once what you have promised to love and cherish you then think it their noble duty to begin right away to pick flaws in you. It isn't the lies they tell on another, but the cold, brutal truths that make so many husbands and wives hate each other, if there were a little less honesty AFTER marriage instead of more honesty BEFORE, getting married wouldn't seem so much like going to a reformatory. Give me a nice little Mrs. Anselmus, who tells you that you are the one perfect being; and that Adonis and Solomon and St. Peter, all combined, would be a mere worm beside you, and I'll not go around searching for an 'honest' woman!"

"I suppose you're right," sighed the Widow. "George Washington was ideal as the Father of His Country, but he would have made an exasperating husband if he stuck to his early principles."

"Of course!" agreed the Bachelor. "And Marfan?" "Yes?"

"I didn't mean what I said a little while ago. It was just an illustration. You're simply—PERFECT! And you know it!"

The Widow smiled enigmatically as she poured the Bachelor another cup of tea.

"Always tell me nice—lies like that, Billy," she said sweetly, "and I'll—return the compliment."

"Of course!" agreed the Bachelor. "And Marfan?" "Yes?"

"I didn't mean what I said a little while ago. It was just an illustration. You're simply—PERFECT! And you know it!"

BEET SUGAR IS JUST 100 YEARS OLD.

THIS year is the centenary of the introduction of beet sugar making. The industry was born in France, and it was the outcome of a pressing need. Owing to the blockade sugar became scarce in that country, and in 1810 the chemist Deverat laid the result of his experiments before the Academy of Sciences. Scientists took up the matter with much hesitation. So great was the success of the process, however, that within a year there were 50 factories hard at work producing beet sugar. To-day cultivation of the beet is carried on extensively in 15 provinces and on a similar scale in the remainder.

PRICE OF MEAT SOARS IN FRANCE AND BUTCHERS FAL

Live Stock Breeding Is Rapidly Diminishing, Tariff Is Prohibitive.

PARIS, Sept. 23.—Meat has gone up in price. It has been going up ever since 1901, and it will undoubtedly continue to soar, says the secretary of the Master Butchers' Union, who gives two chief reasons. The first is that livestock breeding is rapidly diminishing in France. Towards 1820, some 34,000,000 sheep grazed on French soil. Now the number barely exceeds 16,000,000. The consumption of meat has increased.

France, as a rule nowadays, is self-supporting in corn, but is short of meat. England goes to other countries much more for her wheat than for her meat. This leads to the second reason given for the high and constantly rising price of meat in France. The customs duty on imported meat is in France in practice prohibitive. The secretary of the Master Butchers' Union does not go so far as to propose the remission of the protective duty on imported meat, but advocates preference for the French colonies, cattle from which now pay the same tariff as foreign cattle.

The secretary says: "We cannot disguise the fact that the situation is bad both for consumer and purveyor. Thus, until quite lately, not one single case of a butcher in this country going bankrupt was ever recorded. During the past six or eight years scores of them have failed."

LOCK OF HORSE'S MANE WOVEN IN A WOMAN'S HISTORY

Mother of Anita Turnbull Baldwin Tells How Faded Led to Tragic Romance.

IS STORY OF HER LIFE

Describes Champagne Supper on Pacific Coast and Marriage by Contract.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 23.—After 17 years of silence, Mrs. Lillian Ashley Turner of Brookline, Mass., mother of Beatrice Anita Turnbull Baldwin, has told for the first time her life's history, in which E. J. (Lucky) Baldwin played the most conspicuous part.

"I was a very little bit of a girl when Baldwin first came into my life," said Mrs. Turnbull.

"My father dealt in race horses, and as his secretary, I had constantly to write to big horse owners for their catalogues. I always asked for the lock of the mane of valuable horses, when writing owners.

"One day I wrote to Mr. Baldwin for a lock of Grinstead's mane. He not only sent it, but also sent me a letter. We began to correspond regularly, and wrote each other for five years.

"After the death of my father and mother I went to Boston. I later moved to Winchester, Mass.

Invited to Be His Guest.

"Mr. Baldwin came East and called on me. He invited me to be his guest in California. A year later a party was going to California, and I joined them. I wrote Mr. Baldwin how happy I was to have a chance to visit his beautiful state. From the time we left New Orleans, I was besieged by telegrams from Mr. Baldwin, inviting our party to visit him in San Francisco.

"Arriving in Los Angeles, I went to the Westminster Hotel. I here found letters and telegrams, and also money from Mr. Baldwin. At last I decided to go to San Francisco.

"Mr. Baldwin met me in Oakland, and took me in a carriage to the Baldwin Hotel. We had supper together, and he told me of his daughter, Anita, eloping with her cousin, George Baldwin, and that his heart was broken over it. He begged me to take her place and be a daughter. But this did not appeal to me.

"The next day he took me driving, then to the theater in the evening. Afterward we had supper and champagne. He told me his wife and he had separated years before and were divorced. He asked me to be his wife, but that the marriage must be kept secret. Our marriage by contract followed.

Assumed Another Name.

"A few days later we went to Los Angeles and San Diego for a trip, subsequently going to Arcadia to live. Shortly afterward a disgusting rumor reached me, and I found there was a woman and girl living at the ranch, and despite Mr. Baldwin's protest I left him and went to St. Louis.

"I returned to Los Angeles in July, where my baby girl was born. Then I went East, assumed another name, and several years later married Mr. Turnbull, who knew my story. Beatrice was baptized by a Congregational minister in Pasadena as Beatrice Anita Baldwin.

"For years I guarded the secret of my life in order that my daughter might be protected, but I found in the end it was all useless, as she herself discovered the secret on March 1, 1909, when the papers announced Mr. Baldwin's death. The only thing I can do now is to ask that my little one, my baby, born in sorrow, come into her own."

78 RAILROAD WORKERS HURT IN EIGHT MONTHS IN KANSAS

Reports to State Labor Bureau Show More Accidents in the Cement Mills.

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 23.—Only 78 railroad employees were injured in accidents in Kansas during the first eight months of the year. This is a decrease from the 100 accidents in the same period of last year. The figures are obtainable through the operation of the law requiring all transportation and industrial concerns to file reports of all accidents with the State Labor Bureau.

In all 326 accidents were reported, of which number only 52 came within the class absolutely required by law. A total of 341 employees of transportation and industrial concerns were injured. In 46 cases the injuries proved fatal.

The report shows that 121 of the injuries were received through negligence on the part of the injured, 22 by negligence of fellow workmen, and 46 by defective machinery. Responsibility was not fixed in 102 cases.

Injuries were received by 30 packing house employees, 86 cement plant employees and 41 employees in machine and foundry shops.

LANDLORDS SEE TENANTS AND FAMILIES IN A PARADE AND IMMEDIATELY ADJUST RENTS

Socialists Take Leadership of Demonstration and Win Without Violence.

Special Correspondence to the Post-Dispatch.

BUDAPEST, Sept. 23.—The Hungarian capital has experienced a peculiar demonstration which resulted in immediate correction of the evil objected to. In the past few years rents have been going up, particularly in the quarters occupied by wage earners' families. Things have come to a turn where the tenants felt they could not afford to pay the sums asked. They then recalled a demonstration of ten years ago.

At that time rents had increased and tenants organized and decided to pay no rents until the owners of houses were willing to accept reasonable amounts. In some cases they even went to the homes occupied by landlords and broke their windows. This time, however, no violence was employed. The Socialists took the lead and maintained order. They organized a street parade. The front ranks were given over to several thousand barefooted children. Then followed the overworked and underpaid mothers. Last came the toilet-stopped men. They carried flags and emblems. Some of the banners read:

"If there is enough money to build churches which remain empty the year round, why is there not enough to build homes for producers?"

"Down with the sharks who exact exorbitant rents from helpless workers."

"An honest city administration would find a way of helping the workers."

The day after this demonstration, the landlords asked the Socialist party for a conference to devise a method of regulating rents.

DINKER, N. Y., Sept. 23.—The Standard Oil Co. has struck a gas well at Arkwright, near here, which has a flow of nearly 1,000,000 feet a day. The roar of the escaping gas can be heard a mile away. The well is the largest ever opened in the Western New York field.

BEAVERS BUILD DAMS AS FAST AS MILLER DESTROYS THEM

He Cuts Out Obstruction by Day and the Animals Renew It by Night.

AINSWORTH, Neb., Sept. 23.—W. S. Miller, who operates a flouring mill on Pine Creek, 18 miles northeast of here, has been almost put out of business by beavers.

Several years ago Mr. Miller built a mill to supply the demands of the settlers of Brown and Keya Paha counties. All went well until last spring, when the ravages of beavers began. The fur-bearing animals congregated a short distance below his mill dam and threw a dam of their own across Pine Creek, raising the water until it interfered with the operation of the mill. This dam Miller cut out, but within a day or two the beavers returned to their work, felled trees, carried in mud and stones, and during the night built another dam. For weeks Miller continued his fight with the beavers. Last month the beavers apparently gave up the contest and Miller resumed running the mill. Last week, however, the beavers returned with reinforcements, and in one night finished a dam. Since then it has been a battle between man and beavers. Miller cuts the dam out during the day and the beavers replace it at night. He does not dare to kill the animals, as the State imposes a fine of $50 and a term in the county jail for the destruction of every beaver.

ECZEMA ON HANDS FOR TEN YEARS

Were Raw All Over—Was Spreading to Body and Limbs—Used Cuticura and was Cured—Also Cured Daughter's Eczema.

"I had eczema on my hands for ten years. At first it would break out only in winter. Then it finally came to stay. I had three good doctors to do all they could, but none of them did any good. I then used one box of Cuticura Ointment and three bottles of Cuticura Resolvent and was completely cured. My hands were raw all over, inside and out, and the eczema was spreading all over my body and limbs. Before I had used one bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, together with the Cuticura Ointment, my sores were nearly healed over, and by the time I had used the third bottle, I was entirely well. I had a good appetite and was fatter than I ever was. To any one who has any skin or blood disease I would honestly advise them to foot with nothing else, but to get Cuticura and get well. My hands, cured by the use of Cuticura, have never given me the least bit of trouble up to now. I cannot recommend Cuticura highly enough, it has done me and my family so much good. My daughter's hands this summer became perfectly raw with eczema. She could get nothing that would do them any good until she tried Cuticura. She used two bottles of Cuticura Resolvent and one box of Cuticura Ointment and in two weeks they were entirely cured. I have used Cuticura for other members of my family and it always has become perfectly raw with eczema. She could get nothing that would do them any good until she tried Cuticura. LEAGUE DECIDES IT WILL NOT ACT IN SALOONMEN'S BEHALF

Prohibition Body Will Not Interfere in Controversies With Breweries.

The Good Citizenship League has decided not to aid a saloon keeper in a controversy with a brewery by furnishing funds for an appeal bond. The matter was discussed at a secret session of the league Tuesday night at the Reformed Presbyterian Church.

After the meeting, one who attended announced that a committee had been appointed to raise funds and furnish an appeal bond for a saloon keeper, the object of the league being to demonstrate the relation between breweries and saloons. After a full discussion the league decided not to take the matter up.

The Good Citizenship League comprises representatives of church and temperance societies, organized to aid the prohibition campaign in Missouri. At the close of the campaign a permanent organization will be effected to induce other reforms.

Unstamped Opium Seized.
HONOLULU, Sept. 23.—Unstamped opium, valued at $5000, was seized in a tenement house in Chinatown. The tin containing the drug evidently had been in salt water for some time. It is the theory of the federal officials that the opium, with a buoy attached, was thrown into the ocean and afterwards brought ashore.

Suffered With Eczema for 18 Years

Wilson Huff, V. S., Rome, N. Y., writes:

"I will never forget what Resinol Ointment has done for me. I had eczema for 18 years and at times I suffered untold agony. I was advised to use Resinol Ointment, which I did, and got well in a short time. Have had no trouble since, now three years. Think there is nothing like it for all itching skin troubles. We keep a large jar in the house all the time to use for such sores and minor wounds as children are subject to. Have recommended it to many others who had eczema."

Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap are sold at regular drug stores in every civilized country of the world. They are regarded as a boon to humanity wherever skin diseases prevail.

Resinol Medicated Shaving Stick also contains the healing and soothing properties of the ointment and soap. Its delightful creamy lather is excellent for the face and complexion. Booklet containing the best advice on the Care of the Skin and Complexion sent free on application. Resinol Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md.

BALLINGER TURNS UP NEW FRAUD IN LANDS IN ALASKA

Disclosures May Be More Startling Than in the Cunningham Claims.

BIG MEN ARE INVOLVED

Secretary Pushes Case While Smarting Under Glavis' Charges, Report Says.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 23.—An investigation of suspected land frauds in Alaska, which may exceed in scope and startling developments the famous Cunningham cases, is believed to be in progress, guided by federal officials in the Northwest.

This investigation, which is said to involve an entirely new group of claims in charges similar to those brought against the Cunningham brothers, is believed to have been instituted and pushed by Secretary of the Interior Ballinger.

The list of entrymen involved is said to include many men of prominence in Spokane and the inland empire, as well as others of even national importance. Secretary Ballinger's recent visit to Spokane, according to the rumors afloat here, was made in furtherance of the investigation now in progress by officials of the land office and the department of justice.

Special Agents at Work.
Lending color to the reports is the presence in Spokane of Clyde Walker, former special agent at Spokane, and now register of the land office at Juneau.

Two special agents operating out of the Seattle office are said to have been on the ground in Alaska and to have conducted an exhaustive secret inquiry.

Special Agent Christensen, the successor of Louis R. Glavis, and Special Agent Carnahan are said to have been engaged on the cases for several months.

The developments expected in Spokane within the next few days are believed in some quarters to explain in some measure the long silence of Secretary Ballinger under the sting of the Glavis charges as well as the attitude of President Taft toward the secretary of the interior.

Roosevelt Is Denounced.
BRUSSELS, Sept. 23.—The Egyptian National Congress is in session here, having been transferred to Brussels after the French Government had refused to permit the congress to be held in Paris. Mohamed Bey Ferid, the presiding officer, violently denounced Theodore Roosevelt for denouncing Egypt on its own soil.

WIFE ASKS DIVORCE TO WED MAN SHE SAYS FATE CHOSE

Infatuated With Husband's Guest, Southern Woman Wants to Marry Him.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 23.—Asserting that she had had a change of love and that she wished to marry a man fate had chosen for her, but from whom she was separated by its irony, Mrs. Clemens Landry, a handsome woman, 25 years old, has applied to the courts for a divorce. She says she is willing to give her four children to her husband.

The other man in the case was taken to the Landry home by Landry. The husband soon discovered his wife loved the guest and ordered him to go. The wife announced that if the guest went she would go also.

The court has taken the case under advisement. In the meantime the guest remained in the Landry home.

RYAN OFFERS A THOUSAND AEROPLANES TO UNCLE SAM

Millionaire's Son Wants to Create Government Aero Reserve Without Asking a Cent.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—John Barry Ryan, son of Thomas F. Ryan, the New York multi-millionaire, spent a day in the War and Navy departments and succeeded in driving the officials into a state of enthusiasm over the proposition to provide the army and navy with a fleet of airplanes that would augment tremendously the offensive and defensive powers of the twin services.

The attractive feature of Ryan's proposition was its economical side, as he did not ask a dollar of Government money in return for the creation of a reserve of about a thousand aeroplanes that might be called immediately into service by the Government in time of need. What he did want was the moral support of the two departments.

This was given him with hearty good will.

Ryan's idea is to have an officer detailed from each branch to act in an advisory capacity and to assist in the organization of the reserve of military lines.

Efforts will be made to develop aeroplanes of greater size than those now in use, so as to transport a corporal's guard and to carry sufficient ammunition for effective bomb work. Altogether, Ryan's proposition appealed very strongly to all of the army and navy officers with whom he talked.

Sixteen-Hour Law Test Stands.
CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—A suit has been begun against the Chicago & Alton Railroad by United States District Attorney Sims to test the validity of the Federal law restricting employees in the train service of railroads from working more than 16 hours continuously, or from returning to work without having had 10 hours of rest.

ROOSEVELT SURE HE WILL CONTROL N. Y. CONVENTION

Majority of 100 Votes in Sight, He Will Run for Temporary Chairman.

From a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 23.—Col. Roosevelt said to the Post-Dispatch correspondent: "After a close consultation with my friends, and after receiving reports from all parts of the State, I am convinced I shall have a majority of 100 votes in the State convention."

"I shall run for the office of temporary chairman. My friends seem to desire it."

Regarding the declaration of principles to be presented, Col. Roosevelt asserted:

"There has been no decision as yet to the nature of the platform. Its character may be judged from past events and will probably follow the lines of my Syracuse speech."

GERMAN PRINCESS DENIES SHE WILL WED AUSTRIAN ARCHDUKE

Objects to Leaving Fatherland and Changing Her Religion, Is Report.

Copyright, 1910, by the Press Pub. Co. (New York World.)

BERLIN, Sept. 23.—The Post-Dispatch correspondent is authorized to deny positively the rumor that Princess Victoria Louise, the only daughter of Emperor William, is betrothed to Archduke Charles Francis Joseph, who is in line for succession to the throne of Austria-Hungary.

In Berlin court circles it is assumed that when any engagement to marry is made for this princess it will be with a scion of the princely house of Germany, as the Emperor is by no means anxious to have his favorite child leave his realm.

Moreover, the Princess is a devout Protestant and would object vigorously to any such changing of religion as would be necessary to enable her to marry an ultimate ruler of Austria.

When Princess Ena of Battenberg renounced the Church of England and joined the Roman Catholic faith in order to become Queen of Spain her action was caustically commented upon by Emperor William.

DISTILLER'S SON, HUSBAND OF EDNA LOFTUS, SENT TO ASYLUM

Member of Millionaire Family Becomes Violent and Is in Padded Cell.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 23.—Harry A. Rheinstrom, son of the millionaire Cincinnati distiller, who married Edna Loftus, has been declared insane. He has been removed to an asylum at Oakland and in consequence of his violent condition, he was placed in a padded cell.

His pretty English wife, whom he met in Rector's, New York, and whom he married after she had had him freed from the asylum in which his family had placed him on account of his infatuation for her, is deeply distressed.

The young couple, after a reconciliation with Rheinstrom's mother, who, in her determination to prevent the marriage, had once had the actress arrested, came out here to live the simple life in February. But six months on a poultry ranch was as much of it as Mrs. Rheinstrom could stand and they moved to the Coast.

At the time of her marriage to the heir of the distiller's millions, Edna Loftus was the divorced wife of Winnie O'Connor, the jockey. She was a member of the "Merry Widow" company, and for a time was engaged to Lord Dunbarton.

BENDER NOW WORRIED

Want of a Quarterback May Cost St. Louis U. a Victory Saturday.

Coach Bender of the St. Louis University football squad, however, is a winner if the ambition of his footballers earns its just reward. When 22 or 23 athletes get out on a field, arrayed in the heavy, cumbersome gridiron togs and run through signals and scrimmage the greater part of a forenoon with the thermometer feverish, it shows some school spirit.

Bender could not put any snap dash into the work of a squad on such a hot day as Thursday. But Bender probably has the best squad of players on hand in this early stage of the game since Martin Delaney started in with "Pike" Keisley, Brad Robinson, "Slick" Campbell, Dingman and that bunch back in 1904 and 1905. Bender hasn't a squad of giants, but included in his list of players are many well-put-up young men who look like football veterans and who will disappoint if they don't prove such.

Needs Weight in Line.
The former Cornhuskers' chief complaint is that he is lacking some weight for his line. Most of the players who have asked for jobs in the forward division to date are of just average size. However, Bender says that he has been promised some "jumbos" after the opening of the medical and law departments of the school next week.

But Bender will have a chance to show what he has accomplished with his present squad after a week's work in the game with the Shortell College team of Alton at the St. Louis U. campus Saturday. Bender has told his players that they are apt to be defeated by the Alton eleven.

He fears this most because his squad has been working most of the week minus a good quarterback. Ray Dockery, who was looked upon as the regular director of the team last year, hasn't been reporting with any regularity. He has been absent a day or two and Thursday didn't show up until practice was about finished. Bender isn't pleased with Dockery's actions. He realizes that Ray is a good player and almost essential to the team's success, but wishes that he would come out daily.

Bobby Carroll, the next best man for the position, is on the hospital list. He won't be able to get in uniform for Saturday's game. McGuire, who has been running the team in the absence of Dockery and Carroll, is young and inexperienced. He promises to develop but isn't able to get the same work out of the squad as the other fellows.

Will Live at Campus.
As soon as a 4-room house now being constructed on the St. Louis U. campus is completed, Bender will quarter most of his regular players there. That will enable him to call upon the squad at any time the bunch is available. This is something new in the football line in St. Louis.

With all or most of the regular players living right on the field, Bender will be able to get more work out of the bunch than if they were forced to make the daily trip to the campus from their respective departments of the school.

Dave Lamb, who captained the St. Louis U. eleven in 1908, will probably be officially appointed Bender's assistant within a few days. Lamb has been helping the new coach almost daily since practice began. Bender needs some assistance. He has had numerous applications from outsiders for the position but prefers to have Lamb named as his understudy. Lamb is thoroughly familiar with conditions at the blue and white institution and has been through the mill himself. A former star himself he is capable of lending much valuable aid to Bender.

Bender made the squad run through a good afternoon's work Thursday. He had just enough men out to compose two teams. He lined up the first team like this:

Snyder and Ehrhart, ends; Capt. Wagner and Stadler, tackles; Moran and Schlemmer, guards; and Higley, center. Gameway played full white Painter and McCarthy did halfback duty.

With Dockery as the fourth member, Bender believes he will have a nice backfield. The above lineup is only temporary, but all the members named are very promising, though some are lacking slightly in speed.

At any rate, the squad is an enthusiastic one and that counts for much. Bender has made a good, early impression and when school opens, and the weather gets a little cooler, he will very likely do greater things.

OLIVER IN SHAPE
NOW TO DEFEND
TENNIS LAURELS

At the end of the city tennis tournament matches played Thursday on the Triple A courts, the original "form" sheets of the wise ones was still intact. But their calculations came near suffering a severe jar when Roland Hoerr met Guy Oliver. Oliver defeated Hoerr, 7-5, 1-6, 8-6, and the score shows, to some extent, the pace that the present city champion had to travel to put out the local intercollegiate champion and thereby get into the semi-finals. The excuse that Oliver was not in good condition could not hold, as he showed by his endurance the excellent shape that he now is in after a week of play.

If the weather permits the courts to be used today Oliver will meet Elmer Adkins in the semi-final match for the title of the schedule, and Ed Serrano meets Drummond Jones in the other semi-final match. Both of these ought to prove very interesting, but especially the latter, as Serrano is at present playing an exceptionally strong game and has won three contests in easy style to get up to the semi-finals.

Adkins will no doubt give Oliver a great fight, too, but he has not had the strong field to plow through that Serrano met. Jones, the refrigerator, reached the semi-final stage Thursday, by defeating the Country Club smash-er, Clarence Gamble, 7-5, 6-1. Gamble, who is undoubtedly one of the best doubles players in the city, does not appear to be able to get his smashes working when he plays in singles. The results of Thursday's play were as follows:

"Thumbs Down," Connert Says.
"For my own part, on Saturday I am going to exact the letter of the rules—that's the only way to find out their real significance. The matter of determining the neutral zone and making the rulings therein will be puzzling. Unless the exact 20 yards in front of the point of scrimmage is marked, the players will be confused throughout the game. As the umpire will have a great deal to do with this sort of ruling, it has been suggested that he take up a position 20 yards in advance of the line, marking the line of the termination of the zone and at which point side-kicks become legal and forward passes illegal. The head line can take up the duties of the umpire which that official might be unable to perform, by this change. "If that is not done they will have to mark the 20-yard zone line with a flag, just as the advance of the ball is registered on the side line."

As the umpire will have a great deal to do with this sort of ruling, it has been suggested that he take up a position 20 yards in advance of the line, marking the line of the termination of the zone and at which point side-kicks become legal and forward passes illegal. The head line can take up the duties of the umpire which that official might be unable to perform, by this change. "If that is not done they will have to mark the 20-yard zone line with a flag, just as the advance of the ball is registered on the side line."

Squad of 10 Hears
Cayou Explain New Football Changes

With only 10 men out in football for the first practice of the season the work of the Washington University football team was confined merely to drilling the men in the first principles of the game and familiarizing them with some of the radical changes made since last season.

Coach Cayou hustled his men for nearly two hours and showed his eagerness to have them master the new code by interrupting the practice many times to emphasize certain points of the practically new game. He drove spirals for a long time at a goodly distance, having the few warriors out catching them, as unquestionably kicking will be a particular feature of the 1910 game.

"Dike" Nipher, Capt. Walter C. Harting and Lana were the only regulars to report, but Cayou was not at all disappointed. "Duke" Wiederholdt and Harold Perkins looked well to the chief. Perkins played half on the scrubs last year and has a good deal of experience. Wiederholdt, although handicapped by his size, is well versed in the rudiments of the game. He played with the fast McKinley High team in '08 and '09. Halfback Wilson, formerly of the St. Louis University, although not registered, is expected out by the students Monday.

NAVAL MILITIA ASSOCIATION TO MEET IN WASHINGTON

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Members of the militia crews of New York, New Jersey, Ohio and South Carolina, who are in the city preparing for the militia naval regatta on the Hudson River, have formed a permanent organization, named the Naval Militia Boat Racing Association. All the states having a naval militia are to be represented into the association, and these states will send delegates to a convention which will be held in Washington, next February.

It now looks like Lajole. Besides an auto he'll win a Permit to smoke.

Dreyfus Begins to Clean House.
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 23.—Nick Maddox of the Pirates' pitching staff has been released to the Kansas City (American Association) club. It is believed that this is the first move of President Dreyfus to clean house for 1911. Other veteran members of the Pittsburgh pitching staff are slated for release.

WOLGAST AND ATTELL AGAIN
AGREE TO HAVE IT OUT

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—Lightweight Champion Al Wolgast and Abe Attel have been matched to fight in November before the club offering the best purse. Rigs will be received and will be opened Nov. 1. It was agreed that both fighters weigh 133 pounds ringside, but the division of the purse has not yet been decided upon.

Heavy Men Still Powerful Factor, Says Walter Camp
CHICAGO, Sept. 23.
WALTER CAMP, athletic adviser of Yale, who stopped here yesterday on his way to San Francisco, believes that "beef" is still a powerful factor in the making-up of a winning football team, notwithstanding the fact that the new rules provide for a more open game. "It is true there is more chance for a light, fast man to make an eleven under the revised code than formerly," explained Mr. Camp, "but weight will still be a powerful factor in the line and the light back will be working under a handicap in smashing into a defense of heavy forwards. Weight is still a potential factor in the make-up of a winning eleven, and those who contend that the new rules require players of 'beef' are partially right in their contention."

Twenty-Round Contest TO BE STAGED NEAR CITY
For the first time in years a 20-round fight is scheduled to take place in the vicinity of St. Louis. A local boy who made good as an amateur is booked to meet an Eastern man for a side wage and the entire gate receipts at a resort just outside of the city limits. Bouts have been held at this place almost every Sunday afternoon, but they have been limited to 6 and 10 rounds. The word that there will be a 20-round contest Sunday has been passed around and it is expected that quite a crowd will make the trip to see the contest.

It is said that there is hardly a chance of the bout being prevented from taking place, although recently attempts to bring off fights in East St. Louis, Madison and in St. Louis County have met with failure.

Best Cardinals Can Do Is Tie Brooklyn Team

Dahlen's Men Will Win Out a Majority of Season's Games Unless Roger Can Take Three Straight.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—There is no chance now for the Cardinals to win the season's series from the Superbas, but Roger and his merry men are going to make a desperate try to break even. To do this they will have to win three straight games here.

Hearne got his second tryout in fast company yesterday, and, like his first, it was another defeat. But it was different from the first in other respects. His first defeat was not due to him at all; but the whaling he got yesterday was. He was not nearly so effective as he was at the Polo Grounds. The break he was able to get on the ball asserted itself as soon as the sphere left his hand, and by the time half the distance to the plate was covered the ball had straightened out until, when it reached the batter, it loomed as large as the land on rent day. And the Brooklyn fell on it and swatted it with as joyous a vigor as if it had been that afireball. Of the even dozen swats gathered by Dahlen's men, half a dozen were for extra bases.

One was a home run, two were three-base hits and three were doubles. In these extra-base swats, though, the Dodgers were favored somewhat by luck. Dahlen's home run in the opening inning should have been a single. Conlon's triple in the fifth grew out of a single.

Kony Hits a Hard One.
It looked in the fourth as though the Cards were going to put the game on. The probably would have done so if Dahlen hadn't been mean enough to take Scanlon out of the box and send Barger in. It was immediately brought him home.

UNCLE SAM GIVES CADETS BEST FENCING HALL IN WORLD

The room is 100 feet long by 50 feet wide and lighted by 40-foot windows on the north side. The highly polished inlaid floor is spaced to accommodate 52 persons fencing at the same time under ordinary conditions. Along the wall, securely attached to the wall, are several steel racks for fencing outfits, sabers, masks, etc. The walls are devoted to a display of the various army fencers.

WILL GRAYSON SEEKS MEMPHIS FOR BERTH IN NEW A. A. CIRCUIT

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 23.—WILLIAM GRAYSON, owner of the Louisville (American Association) club, is here in an effort to obtain the local Southern Association franchise. According to the plans outlined by Grayson, a movement is on foot to prepare a 12-club circuit in the American Association, and Memphis is being sought after.

MONTE DALE, A LOCAL BOY, GETS CHANCE WITH NELSON

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 23.—Battling Nelson, former lightweight champion, has decided to re-enter the ring and has chosen for his opponent Monte Dale, a former amateur of St. Louis, who has been meeting with success in his bouts in the West. Nelson and Dale are matched for a 10-round bout here Oct. 10. This will be Nelson's first fight since he lost his title to Ad Wolgast.

Penman Goes to Oeschner.

At a meeting of the Missouri-Illinois League Wednesday evening, the penman was officially awarded to the Oeschners. They had an advantage of a half game over the Roban Brothers and Southern Commercial, who were tied for second place. The Tri-City Stars were next in line, while the 99's were fifth.

STALLINGS' JOB NOT YET CHASE'S

Owner Farrell, Pending Investigation, Denies First Baseman Is New Leader.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—President Frank Farrell of the Highlanders has denied that he has already appointed Chase manager to succeed Stallings and announced that Stallings must prove the serious charges he has made against Chase.

"If Chase is proved guilty of deliberately 'laying down,'" said Farrell, "it will be up to the National Commission to deal with him as it sees fit."

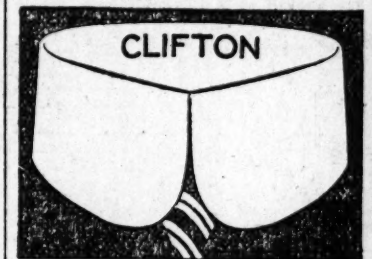

Farrell left last night for Cleveland, where he will meet the Highlanders and investigate the charge made by Stallings. "If Chase is guilty of Stallings' charges," said Farrell, "there is no place on the New York American League team for him or any other team. In my judgment, if he is not guilty he should be promptly cleared of the charges that he may stand vindicated before the public."

Estes General Denial. "Mr. Stallings denies that he gave out the statements printed in the last few days attributed to him or the players of the club in reference to Chase deserting the club in mid-season in Detroit. He also denies that there was a row in the bus returning from the ball park in Chicago last Monday, as Chase was not in the bus, but rode to the hotel in an automobile with three other players.

"If Mr. Stallings fails to prove his charges against Chase it is up to me to deal with Stallings as I see fit, for Chase is too great a ballplayer to have his reputation blackened by such charges. There have been recently many misleading reports about my club and a change in its manager."

"I desire to say," added Farrell, "that George T. Stallings is still manager of the team and that while he is in New York the club is in charge of my secretary, Mr. Thomas Davis, and that I have not appointed Hal Chase to manage the team to succeed Stallings."

GIRL, LIKE CAVALIERI, WANTS HUSBAND'S MONEY IN ADVANCE

Immigrant Braves Deportation, Rather Than Forego Antenuptial Agreement.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—A disciple of Miss Cavallieri has been discovered at Ellis Island by immigration authorities. She is a Bohemian girl, who is being detained by the immigration authorities because she refused to wed Peter Jelton of New Bedford, Mass., until he signs an antenuptial agreement. Johanna met Peter in Bohemia last summer and agreed to follow him back to this country and become his wife. When Peter met her at Ellis Island, Johanna sprang a surprise by declaring emphatically that before she became his wife he would have to bring along his deeds and sign over every bit of wealth he had been boasting about to her. Peter pleaded in vain and unless he yields before Tuesday, his Johanna will be shipped back to the old world.

4 PINTS OF BEER AND QUART OF WHISKEY KILL BETTOR WHO WON

Wife Finds Him Dead Two Hours After He Collected Wager and Came Home.

By Associated Press. CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—Andrew Schostick of Whiting, Ind., laid a wager with a friend yesterday that he could drink two pints of beer and a pint of whiskey within an hour. Schostick drank four pints of beer and a quart of whiskey. Two hours later he was found dead at his home. The two men went into a Whiting saloon and got into an argument as to the quantity of liquors each could drink. As a result, Schostick made the wager, the winning of which cost him his life. After drinking the liquor he went to his home, apparently well. He lay down and went to sleep, and when his wife tried to awaken him she found he was dead.

IF YOU FEEL LIKE A FOOL IT'S LOVE, DECLARES PASTOR

The Rev. John W. Worsnop Lectures on Divine Passion to His Flock.

EULOGIZES WOMAN

But Declares She Is Made of Poor Building Material—Just a Rib.

Poking mere man in the ribs and telling lovely woman that she is the fairest of all created beings, the Rev. John W. Worsnop, at the Grand Avenue Methodist Church, Grand avenue and Connecticut street, delivered a lecture on love to a large audience which he attracted by a clever advertising plan. To assure the success of his lecture on "Belles and Beaux, Love, Courtship and Marriage," he doctored South St. Louis with circulars containing this paragraph:

If you don't know how to make love and don't want to; if you don't know how to conduct a courtship and never did and never expect to; if you never were married and don't want to be, stay at home.

Ribs Poor Material. Of course no young man or young woman in the congregation wanted to be placed in this class—so they all went to the lecture. "The good book tells us," said Dr. Worsnop, "that God took a rib out of man's side and made woman. How wonderful that such a lovely creature should come from such poor material. Men was God's first thought and woman was his second thought. Of course second thoughts are always best. Man is dust refined. Woman is dust doubly refined—one remove further from earth. "What is a man, anyway, without a woman? He is a watch without a mainspring, a ship without a rudder, a fruitless blossom on the tree of life, a locomotive without steam, an automobile without gasoline, an electric car without current, a telephone without a receiver, a phonograph without a cylinder, a firmament without a star, a night without a moon, a day without a sun.

Avoid Long Courtships. "Woman should demand of man the same moral standard as he demands of her. She will never do this so long as she will tolerate in a man the things she would not tolerate in a woman.

"It is the beautiful necessity of our nature to love something. Some women if they can get nothing better will love a pug dog.

"When a young man has a painful suspicion that he is acting like a fool, a dim consciousness that he looks like a fool, and a firm conviction that he feels like a fool he probably is in love. They look into each other's eyes; there is a flash of electricity and then—why they are clean gone from their original senses.

"Love is too often fickle. A young man loves Mamie until he sees Flora, and when he beholds Elizabeth he forgets them both.

"Long courtships, as a rule, should be avoided. Generally speaking it is not right for a young man to visit a young lady constantly and thus monopolize her time and talents."

TEN PER CENT DISCOUNT AT WERNER & WERNER OPENING

Beautiful Floral Decorations at Fourth Anniversary Celebration at Quality Corner.

Floral interior and exterior decorations and plants in rustic boxes in the window display, marked the opening of the autumn fete and style show at the Werner & Werner store, Sixth and Locust streets, Friday. The event commemorates the fourth anniversary in business of the firm at Quality Corner. It will continue Saturday.

Bouquets of pink and white carnations are the souvenirs for women visitors during the two days. Fifteen hundred feet of American laurel from Delaware is festooned about the ceiling and pillars in the salesrooms. The rustic boxes of cedar bark, and many pots containing bay trees in double rows on the pavement aid in beautifying the exterior of the place.

Large bunches of asparagus fern hang from the chandeliers and balconies. French canans are interwoven with the green background. American beauty roses and carnations in elaborate vases occupy prominent places on the counters. In the displays in the 25 windows, flowers vie with the fall styles in attractiveness.

During the anniversary fete a discount of 10 per cent will be given on all purchases of fall wearing apparel. This includes garments purchased for men, young men and boys.

A special opportunity will be given Saturday for children and their parents to visit the juvenile department, and floral souvenirs will be given to the children. The latest styles in juvenile garments in domestic and foreign clothes will be displayed attractively.

In preparing for the anniversary fete the decorations were selected with the same care used by Werner & Werner in the purchase and display of up-to-date merchandise. The fall styles in suits, overcoats, hats, shirts, ties and other furnishings are being shown.

Saturday Sale at S. P. D. The Southwestern Produce Distributors, 307 North Fourth, will offer all day Saturday the finest assortment of the year in fruits and vegetables put up in baskets, at remarkably low prices. Five thousand satisfied buyers attended last Saturday.

Any cigar dealer will issue you a Permit to smoke on payment of a small fee.
